Senate Acts to Keep Foreign Vessels From Using U. S. Flag Approves Barkley Plan Easing Pro- posed Penalties BALLOT FRIDAY

Tobey Says British Ships Flew U. S. Flag Dur- ing World War

Washington—(AP)—The senate defeated, 54 to 36, today a proposed amendment to the neutrality bill which would have forbidden the sale to foreign nations of poison gas, flame throwers and other materials used in chemical warfare.

Offered by Senators Danaher (R-Conn.) and Vandenberg (R-Mich.), the amendment was opposed by Democratic leader Barkley and Senators Tydings (D-Md.), and Connally (D-Texas). The latter three argued that a belligerent nation would hesitate to use poison gas if it knew that supplies from the United States were available to its enemies.

Proponents of the amendment contended it would be unhumane to provide other countries with poison gases and the materials of chemical warfare.

Washington—(AP)—The senate inserted in the neutrality bill today a provision designed to prevent ships of foreign nations from sailing under the American flag after it was found that British vessels used that device during the World war to escape German submarine attacks.

This argument was advanced by Senator Tobey (R-N. H.) who disclosed that he had taken the matter up with Secretary Hull. The secretary, he said advised him that there had been no indications that the British were making similar use of the flag in the European war.

Tobey, who originally proposed the provision although the senate acted upon a less severe substitute put forward by Majority Leader Barkley, argued that the use of the flag by foreign vessels would endanger American lives and property.

The flag issue came up as the senate sped along toward a final vote on the neutrality act tomorrow.

Relaxes Penalties
Barkley objected to stringent penalty provisions included in the Tobey amendment, and his substitute relaxed the penalties. It was accepted on a voice vote.

Under it any foreign vessel which flew the American flag would be prohibited from entering American territorial waters or ports for a period of three months.

An American vessel violated this regulation could be seized and its master fined up to $20,000 and imprisoned for not more than two years.

The restriction on the use of the flag provoked sharp debate after Tobey told the senate that the British used the American flag on their merchant ships during the World war to "mislead German submarines."

Similar "abuse of the flag" in the present European conflict, he said, would endanger American vessels.

No Official Action
He had informed recently of Secretary Hull, Tobey added, whether the state department had asked for assurances from Great Britain that its vessels would not fly the American flag in the present European war.

Hull replied that there had been no indication that British ships were using the flag, and that consequently no assurances had been sought.

The debate on the Tobey proposal often brought several senators to their feet at once.

From Senator Norris (I-Neb.) came an objection that Barkley's proposal did not provide for a court trial of any foreign vessel accused of violating the prohibition, and Senator Borah (R-Idaho) took the view that the penalty Barkley suggested was "too light."

Meanwhile, house leaders apparently reached a tentative agreement to send the senate version of the neutrality bill to a joint senate-house conference committee for compromise rather than risk letting the house amend the bill directly.

This was made known after Majority Leader Rayburn (D-Texas), Representative Martin (R-Mass.), the minority leader, and Representative Mapes (R-Mich.), the senior Republican on the house rules committee, had a discussion on procedure.

The Democratic leaders let it be known they hoped to dispose of the neutrality bill finally by the end of next week and adjourn the special session immediately.

At his press conference, House Speaker Bankhead said the final decision on procedure would await.

Milwaukee—(AP)—Henry C. James, 65, was killed, and a companion, John Downey, 53, severely injured when their automobile was struck by a Milwaukee Road train here late yesterday.

The men, both WPA workers, were returning home from a WPA quarry when the car, driven by James, apparently stalled at the top of the inclined approach to the tracks.

Heil Is Hopeful State Highway Commission Members Will Quit Under Fire During Investigation

Pension Aid Bill Controversy Goes To Supreme Court

State Tribunal Takes Jurisdiction in Heil-Zimmerman Dispute

Madison—(AP)—The supreme court today took jurisdiction in the controversy between Governor Heil and Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman over the publication of the partially-vetoed old age pension appropriation bill.

Upon application of Deputy Attorney General Ward Rector, who appeared for the governor, the court issued an alternative writ directing Zimmerman to publish the bill or show cause why he should not do so. The case will be argued Nov. 10.

The dispute before the court through a mandamus petition, filed in behalf of the governor, asked the court to direct Zimmerman to publish the measure. Robert M. Rieser, Madison attorney, represented Zimmerman.

The controversy arose after Governor Heil had vetoed an appropriation of $3,500,000 of increased pension funds, but approved other sections of the measure allowing counties to boost the maximum monthly allowance from $30 to $40, and requiring that pension administrators be selected on a merit basis.

Refused Publication
Zimmerman refused to publish the bill, asserting that he believed an appropriation measure partially disapproved after the legislature had adjourned, was unconstitutional. The power of partial veto during a session is undisputed.

Although they are not a part of this action, the other partially vetoed appropriation bills, among them:

Reports Snow Cruiser 'Exceeds Expectations'

Gary, Ind.—(AP)—Dr. Thomas C. Gault, scientific director of Armour Institute's Research Foundation, asserted today that sand tests of the 75,000 pound snow cruiser he designed for Antarctic exploration proved it was "far beyond our expectations."

The Chicago scientist was elated by the performance of the sand experiment in sand fields near Gary this morning. The trials were preliminary to the cruiser's impressive journey by highway to Boston, thence to the South pole as part of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's forthcoming expedition.

Dr. Gault said any necessary adjustments or repairs would be made tonight at Fort Wayne, Ind. The entourage will remain there until morning.

Senate Calm Is Upset When Vice President Garner Moves To Speed Legislative Action

Washington—(AP)—The unique discovery by Vice President Garner that a day has 24 hours, not 504, has upset the traditional calm of the senate as much as anything that the realistic Texan has done in his seven years as its presiding officer.

Some senators complained when the vice president, accustomed to the faster pace of the house, brought a whip lash speed to parliamentary procedure in the chamber. The senate always has been allergic to speed. But members still find themselves compelled to perform a certain amount of acrobatics if they get to their feet in time to object to a bill before Garner speaks it into a running start for the White House.

In that case, however, the vice president only introduced the brisk-

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Governor Heil and members of his administration who are in his confidence desire to secure the resignations of the three non-Republican members of the state highway commission and the state director of purchases, capital observers concluded today on the basis of recent developments at the statehouse.

Moreover, statements by two of the governor's intimates at the current hearings in the research department's investigation into state highway department contracts indicate to those who are attending the sessions that the executive office is confident of being able to remove the officers in question, and of being able to take over control of the two important state agencies.

Repeatedly during recent weeks and during the formal hearings, August Frey, one of Heil's oldest personal friends and director of the research bureau, has spoken of "irregularities" in highway department affairs. This week Frey and Elmer Barlow, the governor's counsel who is conducting the questioning at the hearing, attempted to link the bureau of purchases with the alleged "irregularities."

Director of the purchasing department is F. X. Ritger, a native of Hortonville, who has been the state's buying chief since he was appointed to the position by Governor Walter Kohler a decade ago. Earlier he had held a corresponding job at the state university.

During hearings this week Frey and Barlow charged that Ritger improperly delegated to the state highway commission the authority to call for bids and to enter into contracts for the purchase of cement used in state highway construction projects. Ritger maintained that he had received authority for such a delegation of his power from the state advisory council, which functioned under Governor LaFollette last year, but which has been abolished under the Heil regime.

At the same time, Barlow and Frey have attempted to prove that the highway commission is guilty of improper business practices in buying cement last year (the policy was discontinued this year) when it knew that all bids would be uniform, and that therefore the awards would not be made on a competitive basis, but rather at the discretion of the members of the commission.

Barlow also produced figures which he said proved that the state is some instances paid as much as 65 cents a barrel more for its cement than private contractors were able to purchase at the same time. Price variations, consistently showing in favor of the private purchasers, were from 10 to 65 cents a barrel, he alleged.

Treasury Plans To Increase Fund
Morgenthau to Help RFC
Borrow Money to Pay Off Its Debts

Washington—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau announced today that the treasury would add $250,000,000 to its cash fund. It will accomplish this by helping the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to borrow that much money to pay off its debts to the treasury.

The treasury head said the date and details of the financing had not been settled, but the operation would clear up all indebtedness of the RFC to the treasury. At the beginning of this year, the RFC owed the treasury $754,000,000, most of which had been repaid by similar borrowing.

Formerly, whenever the RFC or other corporations needed money, they borrowed it from the treasury and the treasury obtained the money by borrowing in its own name. In the last year, the administration has reversed this policy so that corporations debts now largely stand in their own names. Thus, while the treasury owes $40,972,816,394 governmental corporations, particularly the RFC and Home Owners Loan Corporation, owe an additional $3,536,000,000.

Britain Finds Excuse for Red Move in Poland

Halifax Says Soviet Acted Only After Germany 'Started It'

Chamberlain Declares En- gland Is Ready to Fight to Finish

London—(AP)—The British government partly excused Russia's share in the partition of Poland today as it pressed in both houses of parliament to seek once more Russian friendship for the British-French alliance.

Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax declared that Russia had occupied eastern Poland only after Germany had "started it and set the example" and that the new frontier thereby established was "substantially the boundary" recommended by a British delegate at the time of the Versailles conference.

While Halifax was speaking in the upper house Prime Minister Chamberlain was declaring in commons that Britain was ready to cope with Germany's "fight to the finish."

Pledge Against Nazis
Lord Halifax said Britain's pledge to Poland had been only "to provide against the case of aggression by Germany" though he admitted "it is quite true that it makes no difference to the Poles whether they are invaded from the east or west."

"The last thing I would wish to do in this matter," he told the house of lords, "would be to defend the action of the soviet government at the particular time at which they took it."

"But it is right to remember two things," he said. "First that they would never have taken that action if the German government had not started it and set the example that they did set when they invaded Poland without any declaration of war."

"In the second place, it is worth while recalling that the action of the soviet government has been to advance the Russian boundary to what was substantially the boundary recommended at the time of the Versailles conference by Lord Curzon."

London—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons today that "there can be but one reply" to German declarations of a war to the finish "and we are prepared to give it."

He referred specifically to the Danzig speech Tuesday of German foreign Minister von Ribbentrop. "Ribbentrop has announced an intention of seeing the struggle through with all their (Germany's) energy and strength," Chamberlain said.

"If that is indeed their decision there can be but one reply and we are prepared to give it."

He began his reference to Von Ribbentrop's speech by saying he did not intend to waste time by "commenting on the many details of this performance" and added:

"No one in this country will be deceived by its distortions of the truth."

Federal Officers Nab Four Men in Raid on Shawano County Farm

Milwaukee—(AP)—Lane Moloney, director of the federal alcohol tax unit here, announced today the arrest of four men in a raid on a farm near Krakow, Shawano county, last night.

The men under arrest gave their names as: John Olly, Milwaukee; Casimir Rolczynski, Joe and Felix Zeolkowski, Krakow. They are held at Green Bay.

Maloney said the men would be arraigned before a federal commissioner here tomorrow and probably would be charged with possession of an unregistered still, operation of a distillery on non-bonded premises and secretion of distilled spirits for the purpose of evading taxes.

Five agents conducted the raid during a dense fog. Two of the men attempted to escape, they reported, but soon were captured. The agents confiscated two large column-type stills with a total capacity of 1,000 gallons; four large vats; a high pressure boiler and oil burner; 12,500 gallons of sugar mash; 416 gallons of alcohol; a car and a trailer containing 600 gallons of fuel oil.

Highway Group Quiz To Be Resumed Monday

Madison—(AP)—August Frey, director of the division of departmental research, said today the inquiry into the business methods and practices of the highway commission would be resumed Monday instead of Friday as originally planned.

William E. O'Brien, chairman, and Thomas F. Davlin, member of the commission, will not be available, Frey said.

Davlin is confined in a local hospital for a rest.

Liberal Victory At Quebec Polls Backs War Stand

Premier Duplessis Loses Office but Keeps Seat In Legislature

Quebec—(Canadian Press)—The liberal party swept into power in Quebec province today with an election victory acclaimed by dominion officials as an endorsement of the Canadian government's war policy.

The vote overturned the union nationale government of Quebec Premier Maurice Duplessis, who had called the election after challenging war expenditures approved by the Ottawa administration.

Duplessis, who carried his own constituency to retain a seat in the provincial legislature, will be succeeded as premier by Adolphe Godbout, who headed the Quebec government for two months in 1938.

Dominion Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King, under whose liberal government Canada went to war at the side of Great Britain, said at Ottawa that it was "impossible to exaggerate the significance" of the voting yesterday.

"It has shown above all," the prime minister said, "that the people of Quebec are at one with their fellow Canadians in the other provinces, in the determination that a united Canada shall cooperate at the side of Britain and France in the war to defend freedom and resist aggression."

The liberal victory eased a tense situation in the dominion cabinet, from which the three liberal ministers from Quebec had said they would resign if their party were defeated.

The vote gave the liberals 68 of the 85 seats in the legislature—a gain of 64 over the number of places the party won in the last election in 1938.

New Party Will Convene at Ripon

Invites 'All Liberals' to Proposed Statewide Convention

Milwaukee—(AP)—The newly formed Liberal Republican Party of Wisconsin elected directors here yesterday and announced intentions of holding a statewide convention of "all liberals, no matter the party," at Ripon, Wis.

The directors planned to meet within a week to determine the date for the convention, at which the party will draft its platform.

Officers elected by the directors were Colonel C. S. Curtis, Oshkosh, president; Bernard A. Klatt, Shorewood, vice president, and Paula Ernest, Milwaukee, secretary-treasurer.

About thirty-five persons attended the meeting, held in the office of Peter Zisch, executive director of the Citizens' Pension Recovery Plan, Inc. Zisch said that all members of the pension group, which claims 36,000 in the state, would be members of the new party.

Zisch said that at the Ripon meeting "we will draft a platform with liberal planks for agriculture, labor, pensions and taxation," and that the taxation plank would "approve the gross income tax theory."

"We will not select candidates, but will endorse those who give their resignations with dates left blank to be accepted by the party should they be elected and then go against the platform by their votes or actions," he added.

Roosevelt Aid Says Wallace Should Have Asked President If He Is Seeking Third Term

Washington—(AP)—A White House secretary said today Secretary Wallace should have consulted President Roosevelt before advocating his reelection for a third term.

Informed of Wallace's statement in San Francisco and asked for comment, Stephen Early, press secretary, said:

"It would have been kind and polite of the speaker to have consulted the president before he spoke."

"Is the victim the president?" a reporter asked.

"He's the third term subject of the statement," Early replied.

Told that reaction to Wallace's remarks at the capitol had been somewhat critical in view of administration requests that politics be adjourned during consideration of neutrality legislation, Early said:

"It could have been timed better if it had to be timed at all."

Wallace said in an interview that Europe's war had made plain the desirability of a third term for Mr.

American Freighter at Murmansk Pending Final Soviet Ruling

Berlin—(AP)—Authoritative Germans declared today that soviet Russia had agreed to allow the United States steamer City of Flint to leave the port of Murmansk in charge of her German prize crew as soon as they considered the vessel seaworthy.

A spokesman indicated the vessel would be brought to Germany as a prize.

"The German prize crew will get aboard again," he said, "and you may rest assured the ship will not be headed for the United States."

The United States embassy said the German foreign office at noon (5 a. m., C.S.T.) had "informally communicated" to the embassy that the City of Flint entered Murmansk because she had suffered "havarie" (sea damage) and that her American crew was safe and unhurt.

Sources close to the foreign office indicated that the communication was oral.

Claim Case Clarified

(In Moscow, United States Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt said he had been assured the City of Flint's crew of 42 was safe aboard. Tass, Soviet news agency, said the vessel was taken to Murmansk after a brief halt at Tromsø, Norway, because her machinery had been damaged.)

Authorized German sources said the case of the American ship had been clarified between Germany and Soviet Russia.

He said Russian officials had recognized that the City of Flint sought refuge in Murmansk because she was unseaworthy and, therefore, would be permitted to leave again when she had been put in condition.

German sources said the United States embassy here would be given a full explanation of the ship's situation today.

A Hamburg prize court, informed sources said, is expected to judge the contraband question in accordance with international law.

Silver Shirts and Communists Face Quiz in Chicago

Quick Grand Jury Action Indicated if Law Vi- olations are Found

Chicago—(AP)—District Attorney William J. Campbell announced today he had been instructed by the attorney general to begin an immediate inquiry into the activities of communists, Silver Shirts "and any other alleged subversive organizations" in this district.

Should any violations of federal law be uncovered, the prosecutor said, Attorney General Frank Murphy wants "speedy grand jury action."

Campbell appointed two assistants, Martin Ward and John Keiley, to direct the inquiry with the aid of postal inspectors and the justice department's bureau of investigation.

Postal inspectors, Campbell said, will examine a number of letters received by officials of the Goldblatt department store, and by others.

Ralph Miller, a city detective, has said that police have in their possession more than 300 threatening letters sent in the last five years to prominent Chicago Jews.

Washington—(AP)—The Dies committee encountered fresh criticism from one of its own members today for publishing what it termed a "membership and mailing list" of the Washington branch of the American League for Peace and Democracy.

In the wake of a dispute on the house floor over the action, Representative Voorhis (D-Calif.) told reporters that the committee, to which he belongs, had done wrong in making public the list of 565 federal employees.

The committee has called the league a "communist-front" organization, but Chairman Dies (D-Texas) emphasized it had no evidence that any of the persons named was a communist.

Voorhis said that giving out the list was "just what the communists wanted us to do," he added.

"It will lead to casting doubt upon the findings of the committee even when they are of the most substantial and important sort."

Representative Dempsey (D-N.M.), another committee member protested to his colleagues yesterday that all the persons named were not members of the league "and will be done an injustice."

Pontiff to Issue 1st Encyclical Tomorrow

Vatican City—(AP)—Prelates today said that Pope Pius XII had decided to issue the first encyclical of his reign tomorrow.

Previous reports in Vatican circles had indicated the encyclical would be postponed until next week.

The pontiff's view on war-torn European conditions were expected to be set forth in the letter which by long tradition will take its name from the Latin words with which it begins.

Prelates said the encyclical would be dated Oct. 29, the day of Christ the King.

Hints Britain Not Telling Full Truth About Sea Losses

Nazi Spokesman Points to 'Understated Admissions of Admiralty'

Berlin.—A German spokesman hinted today that Great Britain was not telling the whole story of the cost in British tonnage of the bitter war at sea.

German submarines, warplanes and surface raiders almost daily are challenging British supremacy on the seas with British sunken shipping calculated in the hundreds of thousands of tons.

But the German admiralty and propaganda ministry, for the time being, are giving no precise figures on the accomplishments of Nazi sea raiders.

"Our sailors and aviators are out there, at Scapa Flow, in the North sea and in the east Atlantic, making a good account of themselves," a propaganda ministry spokesman said.

"But the whole story cannot be told now and for actual German accomplishments at sea, the world for the time being, must be content with the understated admissions of the British admiralty."

Answer to Blockade
Raiding at sea is the German answer to British efforts to blockade Germany. It was said in official quarters, and the raiding policy is being guided by Britain's conduct of her blockade.

Any changes in British ships which the British would hold up if they were destined for Germany are regarded as fair game for the German raiders.

"We are doing to them what they are trying to do to us," was one comment in quarters close to the government.

While the Nazi press was preparing the nation for what Friedrich Müller, German Foreign Minister, said in a letter to the Essener National Zeitung, warned would be a "relentless" fight, more than 20 army and air force generals and staff officers were reported to have conferred in Adolf Hitler's chancellery last night.

Danzig Made Province
Further consolidating Nazi gains in the east, Hitler made the former free city of Danzig a province and named Albert Forster, former Nazi district leader there, as governor. The new province includes also the pre-war province of West Prussia.

It has a total population of about 2,400,000.

A Russian trade delegation said to be particularly interested in the developing of artificial rubber and gasoline arrived to further cooperation under the Soviet-Nazi trade pact. The delegation is returning a visit made by a German delegation to Russia.

Headed by I. T. Tevosyan, commissar for shipbuilding, the Russian mission will visit heavy machinery plants to make purchases to offset orders placed in Russia by Germany.

Germany is negotiating with Russia for grain, oil, cotton, raw phosphate, flax, and manganese and other ores to replace supplies shut off by the British blockade.

Government Keeping Close Watch Over Price Trends

BY T. B. RAGSDALE

Washington.—Wash. abroad and a step-up of demand at home have set the government departments to keeping a much closer watch on price trends than they maintained in normal times.

The labor department, for instance, has provided a 24 hour check of price changes.

Several other departments maintain price reporting systems but only in certain phases of current conditions. The labor department is interested in all the factors that affect the cost of living.

It can tell the day by day changes in the price of navy beans in Boston, pork chops in Buffalo, potatoes in Denver, lard in Houston or butter in Los Angeles.

Generally speaking, retail prices have moved up in Boston since the war started in other cities on the labor department chart. Eleven selected foods show an average leap in cost of 16.8 per cent in the Boston area since Aug. 15, Washington is second with a jump of 10.4 per cent.

RUTH JUDD, TRUNK SLAYER, ESCAPES

Charged with the trunk slayings of two women friends, Winnie Ruth Judd is shown here talking to her husband, Dr. W. C. Judd, as she lies on a jail hospital cot in Los Angeles in October, 1931. Convicted of one of the murders and sentenced to die in 1932, she was later adjudged insane and lodged in the Arizona State hospital, from which she has escaped. Hospital authorities at Phoenix said she had been expecting a visit from her husband, who is now a patient at the veteran's hospital at Santeeville, Calif.

Search Widened in Arizona For Escaped Trunk Slayer; Authorities are Baffled

Phoenix, Ariz.—Baffled by a strange hospital escape, authorities widened a search today for Winnie Ruth Judd, insane murderer, who gained freedom just eight years after her arrest for killing two girls whose bodies she cut up and stuffed into trunks.

Describing herself as "persecuted" and "desperate to see my father," in a letter she addressed to Governor Bob Jones. Mrs. Judd fled late Tuesday night from the Arizona State hospital here, where she was committed as mentally unbalanced after twice being condemned to hang.

The slim, golden-haired slayer, who shipped the trunks containing the bodies of Agnes Ann Le Roi and Hedvig Samuelson, young nurses, to Los Angeles, was arrested in Pasadena, Calif., Oct. 24, 1931.

Dummy in Bed
She was gone from the hospital almost 12 hours before attendants discovered her absence because she had fashioned a dummy figure in her bed to make them believe she was sleeping.

From the hospital she went to the home of her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. H. J. McKinnell, spent about 10 or 15 minutes there, then disappeared.

Mrs. McKinnell delivered to Governor Jones a letter from Mrs. Judd in which the slayer contended Dr. Louis J. Saxe, hospital superintendent, and his staff "persecuted" her.

"I am desperate to see my father," she wrote. "I am going to see him tonight, then somehow see my husband, and I will surrender to you on condition you promise me Dr. Saxe will be forced to leave me alone."

"I will not run away. I do not want my freedom illegal," she wrote. Her husband, Dr. William C. Judd is at a veterans hospital in Los Angeles.

Governor Jones said that although Mrs. Judd had received the best of treatment at the hospital she had developed the belief she was being persecuted. During the last 18 months, the governor added, her mental condition "became worse by degrees."

Police were mystified as to how she escaped. Locked doors could be opened only with a key. Windows of the wards are covered with wire mesh. Hospital attendants insisted everything was in order.

Mrs. Judd, 34-year-old former physician's attendant, killed the two nurses with whom she had lived the night of Oct. 17, 1931. A baggage attendant became suspicious when he saw blood dripping from the trunks in which their bodies were shipped.

Senate Moves to Prohibit Flag to Foreign Vessels

Senate completion of the legislation. He predicted the house would complete action within a week.

"I think that will allow for liberal debate," he said.

Senate opponents of the neutrality bill switched their strategy today, in an effort to get a clearer test of their strength for retaining the controversial arms embargo.

Senator Clark (D-Mo.) an opposition leader, said he would try to insert in the bill the language of the existing law forbidding arms shipments to belligerents.

He conceded that his amendment had little chance of adoption, but said it would provide an affirmative test instead of a negative or "backdoor" approach through a motion to strike out the bill's section repealing the embargo.

Administration forces welcomed the opposition change in plans and claimed between 60 and 70 votes for repeal. The opposition conceded them 55 to 50. A majority is 49 provided all 96 members vote.

Clark said he would offer his embargo-retention proposal after all other amendments were disposed of; the time was uncertain for a fresh flood of amendments slowed up floor action yesterday.

Reject Amendments
The senate was held in session more than seven hours yesterday, but it succeeded in disposing of only three more amendments. All were rejected.

Senator LaFollette (R-Wis.) lost 67 to 22 a proposal to create an export control board to restrict American exports to belligerents and neutrals to normal peacetime amounts.

Senator LaFollette's amendment would have limited war-time exports to the average of any four consecutive years of the last 12 in order to prevent a war boom.

LaFollette suggested establishment of an export control board to fix quotas on the exports of raw and manufactured products. The Wisconsin senator contended that the distortion of war trade would aggravate and intensify this country's economic difficulties.

The nation, he said, should protect its "exhaustible resources"

Greatest Danger to Allies Thus Far Lies in Germany's Sinking of Merchant Ships

New York.—The greatest danger to the Anglo-French allies thus far developed lies in the Nazi assault on merchant ships carrying war supplies and foods.

The extent of this menace has been emphasized by the increase in the number of sinkings of allied tonnage (chiefly British) in the last few days, and the continued use of the drag-net to catch neutrals allegedly carrying contraband, and at witness capture of the American steamer City of Flint.

In this connection, only this morning a German official spokesman intimated that the full cost to British shipping hasn't been told.

To get the entire picture one mustn't overlook the renewed threat from Berlin of wholesale bombing of England. This presumably would be calculated to include massed attacks on shipping tied up in ports.

Answer to Blockade
All this is, of course, the Nazi answer to the allied blockade which also is aimed at squeezing Germany into submission—a weapon which was one of the major factors in the defeat of the Germans in the World war.

The terrible capabilities of the submarine were fully demonstrated in the last upheaval. During that conflict German U-boats sank a total of 5,408 allied and neutral ships (11,189,000 gross tons), and in the process lost 203 under-warships.

boats, which are comparatively easy to replace.

Things got so bad at the end of 1916 as the result of Germany's first unrestricted "submarine" campaign that Admiral Jellicoe, British commander-in-chief of the British grand fleet, described it as "the greatest peril which ever threatened the population of this country (England)."

The famous sailor naturally had in mind that Britain is utterly dependent on the outside world for 75 per cent of her food, and at that time supplies were getting dangerously low.

Jellicoe also took the extreme step of writing direct to the prime minister to declare that the loss of shipping alone might soon compel the allies to make peace.

At Peak in 1917
The terror reached its height in 1917. On Feb. 1 the Germans began a second "unrestricted" campaign. The designated Mediterranean and the areas enclosing the British Isles and France as war zones and decreed that vessels of any nationality found in these waters should be destroyed.

Days of horror followed. I did my tricks as submarine-watch on the bridge of a ship in the Mediterranean when vessels were going down all about us, sometimes with all hands aboard, and can testify that life was hell on the high-seas then.

In that year alone, 2,639 merchant ships were sunk.

It's hard to say what might have happened to the allies had America's declaration of war not brought the United States navy into action to convoy merchant vessels and troop-ships. Certainly it isn't boasting to say that our navy did much to save the day.

Records of sinkings in the present war aren't complete, but about 90 allied and neutral merchant steamers appears to have been sent to the bottom.

The British the other day estimated that they had destroyed from a quarter to a third of the entire German submarine fleet. They figured this fleet last April at 43, with 22 more building.

With the fighting at a stalemate, each side has been concentrating on trying to cut the other fellow off from necessary supplies. Bitter accusations of attempts to starve children and other helpless civilians have been bandied about, and vigorously denied.

Testifies Money Was to be Used for Paying Off Officials

Waukegan.—The jury trying Herman R. Salen, former district attorney, on charges of perjury and false swearing, heard a witness testify today that he saw money paid to Salen to be used as part of a slot machine operators' fund for paying off public officials.

Victor Manhardt, Jr., Milwaukee, a member of the Automatic Merchandising Machine association, declared from the stand that he saw Salen collect $400 or $500 on one occasion and obtain $50 from one operator at another time.

Salen is accused of testifying falsely during a 1938 trial, in which he was acquitted of conspiracy to violate gambling laws, that he never had collected any "dues" from the association and that he did not know the men were operating illegal machines.

Suggest Fund
Manhardt corroborated previous testimony that Salen suggested a $3,000 fund to "make it interesting" for county officials. Manhardt said that on July 7, 1938, he saw members of the association pay $400 or $500 to Anton Vogt, treasurer of the group, and then saw Vogt turn the money over to Salen.

Later, Manhardt testified, he saw Ray Agard of Burlington, who since has been convicted as a slot machine operator, pay a $50 "initiation fee" to Salen.

Hubert Voss, Sullivan tavern operator who also has been convicted as a slot machine operator, said that on July 7 he saw Vogt lay the money down on a desk. "I think he gave it to Salen," Voss continued. "He handed him something. I think it was money."

(There has been no testimony that any money was paid to any county official. A. Joseph Martin, president of the association, testified yesterday that Salen told him he would try to "circumnavigate" District Attorney Scott Lowry without offering him anything.)

against depletion by a booming war trade.

He declared, for instance, that if limitless exports of petroleum were permitted "we will be wiping out one of our defensive safeguards."

Finland Refuses To Accept Terms Asked by Russia

Delegation Reports to Government After Brief Visit to Moscow

BY LYNN HEINZLINGER

Helsinki.—An authoritative source declared today that Soviet Russia's new, modified demands on Finland still contained points on which Finland refused to yield.

After Dr. Juho Kusti Paasikivi had spoken for an hour today with President Kyyroksi Kallio, Foreign Minister Aimo Cajander, and Prime Minister Aimo Cajander, a foreign office spokesman said there was "no doubt" negotiations with Russia could be continued and that the Finnish delegation headed by Dr. Paasikivi would go to Moscow for the third time.

Dr. Paasikivi and the entire delegation returned to Helsinki this morning, bringing the new demands with them.

What points Russia has raised were not disclosed but they were said to involve what Finns consider the republic's independence and neutrality.

There was no announcement of when Paasikivi would go back to Moscow, a government source saying merely he would leave "in due time."

Of reports that the government was considering making public the Russian demands to put Finland's case before the world, a spokesman said:

"Always, in negotiations of this kind, the point comes when they must be made public. So far we have no reason to do it."

This was the second time the Finnish envoy had come back without reaching an agreement with Russia on still undisclosed issues. When one official commented on the brevity of this trip, Paasikivi laughed and replied, it was "like a promenade."

The delegation went immediately to the foreign office for a discussion on the delicate situation with Prime Minister Aimo Cajander and other government leaders.

Some observers expected that the latest Russian demands would be communicated immediately to the governments of Norway, Denmark and Sweden which, it was disclosed, have been in daily contact with Helsinki since the Stockholm conference last week.

recesses, the same old day is just 24 hours longer. By the senate's legislative calendar, it is now Oct. 4.

Nevertheless, under the no-date-twice-in-one-day rule, a practical purpose is served by ignoring the calendar. Dragging out the days to an enormous total of hours prevents senators from speaking twice in the same day by the legislative calendar. The practice is a roundabout way of limiting debate.

But in Texas, the sun rises, a man gets up and does his day's work, the sun sets, the man goes to bed and sleeps. The day is over in 24 hours. The next sun rises on a new day. By the clock, the calendar and the newspapers, along with other supporting facts he has dug up, the vice president concluded this week that he can prove it is not now Oct. 4. He has offered to show the senate. He might be able to do it.

That he might put a new weapon in the hands of would-be filibusters is purely beside the point as far as Garner is concerned. Senatorial friends who have tried to argue the question with him came away with something like this ringing in their ears:

"I refuse to strain my mental integrity to the point of ruling that a day is longer than 24 hours. If the senate wants it otherwise, it should change its rules."

Garner's friends think that the senate will uphold him. In his seven years of presiding over the chamber, it has not overturned one of his rulings, a record for any vice president.

Lawrence College Will Elect Student President Tomorrow

Politics was the No. 1 topic in the talk of Lawrence college students today as they prepared to cast their ballots tomorrow for a student council president.

The 10 candidates—five seniors and five juniors—will reveal their platforms in tomorrow morning's edition of the Lawrentian, college weekly, and give their campaign speeches at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in convocation in Memorial chapel.

After the students have read the candidates' statements and heard their speeches, they will ballot, the polls remaining open until 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Two Appleton men, students, both football players, and one Appleton girl, are candidates for the post. Kenneth Buesing, captain of the Viking grid team, Vince Jones, large tackle, and Mary White are running. Buesing is a senior, Jones a junior, and Miss White a senior.

Tom Jacobs of Chicago, who was graduated last June, served as president last year.

BOARD WILL MEET
The Appleton Y.M.C.A. board of directors will hold a 6 o'clock dinner meeting this evening at the association building. Routine business will be discussed.

City Engineer Designs Sewer System to Relieve Overloads On Present Lines Under WPA

Construction of a storm sewer system in Appleton designed to eliminate flooding of streets and basements after heavy rains and thaws will be started this winter under a WPA project, according to Alfred Wickesberg, city engineer.

The system, to be built in eight units over a period of two years, will cost a total of $218,308 of which the federal government will pay $156,513 leaving a balance of $59,795 for the city to absorb over the 2-year period. The project has been approved by the federal government.

Wickesberg said the city's share will amount to about 27 per cent of the total cost. Under a recent WPA ruling the sponsor of a project must furnish at least 25 per cent of the cost. Of the federal allotment, $143,065 will go entirely for labor. The engineer expects to start the project with about 100 men and could use up to 215 men if they are available under WPA certification.

Need Storm Sewers
"Storm sewers are the logical need in the development of a city," Wickesberg said. "Our sewer system is fairly adequate for sanitary sewage alone, but it certainly is not adequate to receive storm waters."

The trouble, discomfort and financial loss is known to almost everyone in the city when sewage backs into basements after every storm, he said. As streets are improved and the areas for building are developed, storm waters flow quickly to the catchbasins and overload the sewers, he explained.

Construction of a system of storm sewers in each street is economically impossible, but to install a system of storm relief sewers in every third or fourth street, placing the relief sewers deep enough so that they will relieve all the sewers that cross them is feasible, Wickesberg explained.

Wickesberg has designed his system to do this. Overflows will be constructed so that when the existing sanitary and storm sewers are about eight-tenths full, they will start spilling over into the storm relief sewers. If a system like this is built throughout the city, with relief sewers reaching critical areas, backflow of sewage into basements can be eliminated, the engineer said.

Sewers Too Shallow
Many storm sewers in the city at present were built too shallow and cannot take overflow from sanitary sewers, he said.

"It may be argued that the expenditure of $60,000 over two years is high for a city that tries diligently to keep the costs of government down," Wickesberg stated. "But when hundreds of homes, many of them in the $20,000 class, are ruined by backflow of sewage, it is time the situation is corrected."

The first unit of the project to be installed will be a 24-inch sewer on Durkee street from Washington street to College avenue, mostly in tunnel. This sewer is especially needed to relieve the Johnson street sewer which floods basements of many business houses along the avenue, Wickesberg said.

The sewer will run into the existing 33-inch sewer on Durkee street which runs north to the Atlantic street sewer. Another unit to be constructed this winter will be the Mason-Winnipeg street line. A 36-inch storm sewer was built on Lorain street to Mason street last winter. It is proposed to run a 24-inch sewer south on Mason to Badger avenue to relieve the Badger avenue sewer and also north on Mason to Winnipeg street and westward with an 18-inch sewer on Winnipeg from Mason to Gillette street. The roof water from the new high school is entirely separated and can be connected directly to the new sewer.

Largest Unit
By far the largest unit in the system is the Union street line, the engineer said. It will be a 48-inch sewer beginning at the 66-inch Atlantic street line and will run north to relieve the entire north end of the city east of Erb park. This area, newly developed, has been especially damaged by backwater. The proposed new sewer will relieve the sewers flowing east on all the east and west streets. A branch will run west on Spring street to Drew street and then north on Drew street to Summer street to relieve the area to the west. The Union street sewer will decrease in size as it goes northward and will terminate at Parkway boulevard.

A fourth unit involves construction of an 18-inch sewer on Roosevelt street from Alvin street to N. Division street and from Clark street to N. Division street. It will flow into the 36-inch storm sewer now on N. Division street. This sewer will relieve these three streets between Parkway boulevard and Brewster street.

A 24-inch sewer reducing to 18 inches will run on Story street from Spencer street to College avenue to relieve the present College avenue line, the Lawrence street line and the Eighth street line. It will empty into the 39-inch sewer on Spencer street constructed under WPA two years ago.

Nawada Street
The Nawada street unit will be a 24-inch sewer on Nawada from Owassa street to Winona way and on Winona southward and turning west to enter the ravine. It will relieve sewers on Owassa, Lemnawah and Nawada streets.

Another sewer line will be built starting at John street and west on South River street to Kernan avenue, then south on Kernan to Dewey street where it will empty into a ravine west of Kernan avenue.

The final unit will involve completion of the Spencer street system. The large sewer built on Spencer street from Locust street to Benoit street two years ago will prove invaluable in future years, Wickesberg said. It is deep enough so that it can be extended west and north to serve and relieve a large area lying west of Mason street and as far north as Packard street. Under the project, it will be extended on Spencer from Benoit to Douglas and on Douglas from Spencer to College avenue.

Lincoln, Cleveland and Wilson Counties in North Carolina were not named for Presidents. The first two were Revolutionary patriots and the last was a general in the Mexican war.

Declares State May Default Aids Due High Schools

Assemblyman Warns School Official $1,300,000 May Be Withheld

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—A responsible state school official today revealed that he had been warned by Assemblyman P. Bradley McIntyre, member of the governor's emergency board, that the state government may default on the $1,300,000 in state aid due Wisconsin public high schools on Dec. 15.

The assemblyman's warning is that the treasury will not be able to meet ordinary obligations of the state government department of various state aids are paid when due. County highway funds due the counties in December also will be postponed indefinitely, according to well posted capital activities.

Meanwhile, reports from localities received by John Callahan, state superintendent of public instruction, showed that high school enrollments in Wisconsin this year are setting a new all-time high record.

Preliminary figures filed in the state department indicate that 158,000 children enrolled in Wisconsin public high schools in September, an increase of 2,500 over a year ago.

Commenting on the trend of high school enrollments in the state, the past five years the state's high school attendance has jumped by more than 20,000 in the last ten years by more than 54,000.

The organization also noted what it called an encouraging aspect of the situation, that the largest percentage of increase is in the rural areas, in the form of tuition students. During the current school year, out of district pupils in state high schools will represent 26 percent of the total secondary school enrollment, it was said.

However, the association pronounced that "the goal of free public education will not be achieved until all school pupils, beyond a reasonable walking distance are brought in to school, without cost to their parents." That, it was explained, will mean more generous school transportation budgets.

Name Speakers for Cooperative Program
Madison—(P)—John A. Becker, general manager of the Wisconsin Development Authority, and W. W. Clarke, associate director of the agricultural extension service of the University of Wisconsin, will deliver addresses at Eau Claire Nov. 2 when the Eau Claire Electric Cooperative will be put into operation.

The cooperative, whose president is Lloyd Anderson, of Strum, has 787 members and 272 miles of line. Work on an 87-mile addition is expected to start soon.

The state withdrew its aid from the WDA last March as a result of an act of the legislature.

Pegler Finds Most of Reno's Betting Is in Small Change

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Reno, Nev.—There seems to be two stories here, one about the wide open, legal gambling and the divorce industry, the other about Nevada's humane attitude toward soulless corporations and the rich. This is the one about gambling and divorce.

The gambling is undoubtedly open, legal and one of the principal occupations of a great many locals and casuals. However, any vice which is cheap tends to demoralize itself and in Reno there is a roulette wheel for which one-cent chips are sold and most of the bets on all the games, with the exception of fargo and craps, are in amounts of a quarter or less.

The standard limit in roulette is $5 on a number, but this is reached only when some high-roller happens along from the outside. But the vast bulk of the gambling, and it is vast only in bulk and over a long period is pathetic in its scrawny poverty by comparison with the hell-roaring extravagance of the old buccaners of Virginia City in the golden days and even by comparison with the more modest recklessness of the small miners then and later.

Even Monte Carlo, in the day of the three-cent franc, with only one joint and evening dress required, out-gambled all Reno today. Hundreds of slot machines line the walls and stand back-to-back in solid rows in the dumps and lurk in the corners of stores and restaurants, usually near the cash register, so as to suggest an idea to the customer who has just received some change.

But those built for quarters receive little action, while the nickel and dime machines grind in the small money of a clientele composed for the most part of gamblers who are by no stretch of the imagination Park avenue scions and scionesses of Hollywood stars. They seem closer to the WPA.

In the Reno rooms where cards are two for a dime, and in the big department stores of the gambling business which offer everything including the paddle-wheel, ladies of the most reserved type and plainly not of the divorcing set are as much at home as the dealers who get $15 a day and enjoy full respectability under the law.

Stickman On Same Legal Terms As The Governor
In Nevada gambling properly licensed and provided the tools are honest is as respectable as preaching and a stickman is on even terms legally with the governor himself. Therefore, an elderly lady with her children grown up and gone away and with a dollar in hand is no more out of place spotting nickels on the corners of a layout or peering at the numbers on a pair of keno cards than she would be scuffling around in the chain grocery, squeezing melons and complaining of the price of neck-bones for stew.

That business about the children being grown up and away is just something out of my sentimental imagination. For all I know, she may be an old-time, professional hoyden with a record as long as a rubber mile. You can't go up and ask old ladies if they are respectable.

From the way this is developing I feel justified in predicting that I won't get around to the divorce story today, but will make that one No. 2 and the tax thing No. 3.

It is snobbish to say that a one-cent bet by a person who is galled that way economically is less glamorous than a $100 or $1,000 bet, or name any figure you like, by a rich man or woman, but that is the way it is. Dime bets are tawdry, too, for the same reason that people all around the country lap up subsidized publicity, disguised as news, about rich and silly night-crawlers in the expensive saloons of New York, but don't care at all about the outings and brawls of factory people in Joe's grill, except as police news.

Supported By Town Types Of Both Sexes
In Reno the city collected $59,452 and the country $48,142 in license fees from gambling devices in the year ended last June 30, at a flat rate per table, machine or whatnot, and without regard for the total amount of money gambled through them. I don't want to say that this unknown aggregate was mostly little money, because a fancy man who is being kept by a rich woman, in or out of wedlock, may send in thousands of dollars in a few hours and bend the ratio out of shape. But the grind is not maintained by the pretty people. It is supported by the town types of both sexes, from 9 o'clock of a Monday morning, to my certain knowledge, to long, long beyond 12 of a Saturday night. And something which I thoroughly understand, now that I am an old settler, 48 hours in Reno, boy and man, is our casual acceptance of all this gambling as petty amusement and commerce, unrelated to vice.

It startles a stranger at first. Then he doesn't give it much of a thought. I hear it is the same way in those south sea places where the ladies go around so nonchalant.

IRISH WANT MORE HOSE
Because women of Eire do not have enough hosiery, the Drapers' Chamber of Trade has asked the government in Dublin to permit the importation of at least 120,000 pairs of ladies' full-fashioned hose. The Drapers said the present import quota and the capacity of Irish mills were not large enough to keep the amount of money gambled through them. Congress May Bar Communists From Government Jobs

Action Would be in Line With Hatch Law Restrictions, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Officials of the government who have just been disclosed to be members of what the Dies committee unanimously terms a "communist front" organization may soon face a choice between continued membership or loss of their respective jobs.

It is a simple thing to introduce and probably as easy to have congress vote at its January session an amendment to any current appropriation bill which shall provide explicitly that none of the funds may be used to pay salaries of government employees affiliated directly or indirectly with communist party activities.

Such a proposal would be in line with the restrictions already placed upon government employees under the Hatch law. The latter statute plainly deprived government employees of privileges enjoyed as to party politics by private citizens generally, but the constitutional authority for such a step is the well-established principle that Uncle Sam, as an employer, may impose any restrictions or qualifications he pleases upon those in government posts.

Anyone who dislikes the restrictions is at liberty, of course, to resign and get another job thereafter and keep his membership in the communist party or any other organization of a radical type.

Battle Against "Jims"
The Dies committee, of course, has been none too popular from the outset of its hearings with the so-called liberals in government, who have felt that the committee was using the communist argument as a smokescreen against them for their left-wing beliefs and doctrines. But the Dies committee has assailed fascist and right wing organizations with vigor, too, so that it has become a matter now of a battle against "jims" as such.

The committee may or may not be going too far in its implications that members of a communist-influenced organization or those on a mailing list are to be held up to criticism, but the committee's point is that members of the American League for Peace and Democracy—the organization in question—have had since last January to detach themselves from a league whose connection with the communists was unanimously held by committee members to be proved.

Some advocates of freedom of opinion will insist individual liberty is to a certain extent circumscribed by what the committee has done, but whether they are right or wrong as to abstract or concrete acceptance of communistic philosophy by individuals outside the government, there can be no doubt about the probable mood of congress so far as persons employed by the government itself.

The appointment to a government position carries with it a necessary separation from private interests of all kinds and it would seem to be inevitable that some legislation barring from the government anyone connected with communistic organizations or their affiliates will very soon be adopted by congress.

THE WORLD OF STAMPS

To mark the national census which is being conducted this year and next, Mexico has released a set of six attractive stamps, three for regular postage and three for air mail.

These are the designs: 2 centavos, buildings, red; 5c, green, symbolic hand planting seeds, with air mail.

The three for air mail are: 20c, blue, with airplanes, denoting transport; 40c, orange (illustrated here) with hands before a factory, representing industry; and 1 peso, blue, with a building, public lands, transportation, industry, commerce.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble is lack of blood. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, retching at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. I request or "santy" passages with smacking and burning sometimes there is a strong odor coming from your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Get your drugstore for Doan's. Pills used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney trouble sufferers get relief from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

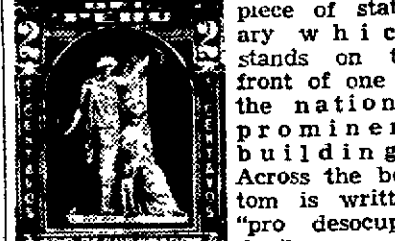

Guatemala Set

Another Latin American country, Guatemala, has just issued a set of low values featuring items of interest in that country. It consists of the following: 1 centavos, Mayan calendar in brown and green; 2c black and blue, a picture of the "White Nun," the national flower; 3c green and brown, the quetzal bird; another 3c green and red, the quetzal; and a 5c blue and orange, a map and seal.

Peru's Unemployed

Peru has issued a 2 centavos brown lithographed stamp for the benefit of the nation's unemployed.

For some reason Peru has also reprinted its 10c scarlet on "Motor Roads of Peru" which first appeared last year. It's listed as A155 in the Standard Postage

Catalogue. It shows a map of Peru with the inset, when translated, "Peru has the highest net of motor roads in the world."

INITIATE MEMBERS

Philatelists of Appleton High school initiated 16 new members into their ranks at a meeting Wednesday afternoon at the high school. The new members are James Acheson, William Baker, Diana Caramihas, Bud Drier, Rosemary Gabriel, Kenneth Gertsch, Sherman Given, Arlene Gaffin, Ronald Grunert, Allen Ingbertson, Richard Mollin-

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE

Peppless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—eat even food, healthy and strong, yet you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, doped, tired and restless.

Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs through your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today. They are world-famous for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today.

JOHNS, WILEY AND LAFOLLETTE SPEAK ON THE EMBARGO

Congressman Johns and Senators Wiley and LaFollette have all made addresses in congress against altering the present embargo but each has followed a line of reasoning that has appealed to his own judgment after particular study.

All of the addresses as printed in the Congressional Record denote considerable research and reflection.

The main spring of Senator LaFollette's address was that a repeal of the embargo merely opened up the gate onto the old, old road of war; and that having taken the first step we would most likely continue until we found ourselves in the thick of the struggle.

The principal basis for Senator Wiley's opposition to a repeal of the embargo is his conclusion that public sentiment in Wisconsin favors the retention of the measure. Mr. Wiley is not afraid that we will become embroiled in war, does not believe that whether the embargo be retained or cast aside will actually make any difference.

Mr. Johns was more cautious in the presentation of his reasons. He did not exhibit overpowering fear that war was coming hither but he declared that we had no moral right after a war had started to alter the conditions of our neutrality, and he cited innumerable documents written by scholars and statesmen, and that originated before this question arose, to sustain himself.

But the best part of Mr. John's address consisted of its shrewd allusions to the history of this embargo legislation, how it was supported by the secretary of state and the president, or at least how each referred to it as the significant evidence of our determination to turn our backs upon "blood smeared dollars," and how the administration was very anxious to impress upon the people that a wondrous law had been enacted to preserve peace but ran for the cyclone cellar immediately that large-scale war put it to test.

Mr. Johns must have obtained considerable satisfaction in basing his decision upon the very grounds employed by those who would now erase the law to sustain it only a few years ago.

That is all legitimate debate, of course. But Mr. Johns must know that he can quote the president and most of his official family on both sides of nearly every question of importance. What they say to the public depends upon whether the sun is shining or the rain is falling.

Despite the opinions of these representatives of the people we remain entirely unaffected in our conclusion that the sale of munitions is our right and that if they are sold without the extension of credit or the danger of transporting them the peril of warfare for us is practically negligible.

We don't have to fear Germany. It is Germany that fears us. Back in World War No. 1 no one ever declared war on us. We were the ones who declared war. We need most to watch our own emotions and then eye carefully night and day our phrase-making rulers who sometimes remind us of mercury in their tendency to switch positions.

PIONEERS OF 1939

Latest reports on the Matanuska Valley venture in Alaska, issued in connection with a new plan for colonization with private capital, reveal that only 110 of the 200 families placed there by the government are still there.

Ninety families have concluded that this is not destined to become a new American empire, and some of them have come back to the relief rolls in the United States. Furthermore, the 110 families remaining have cleared on an average of only 15 acres each, construction of roads has taken $1,000,000 of the approximately $4,000,000 allotted the colony and the area cannot support more than 150 families at present.

This report would make surprising reading for the pioneers who trekked westward a number of years ago, or the hardy workers who went into the forests of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and other states. These early settlers were on their own. They had no government building roads for them, or giving them tools, materials and other assistance. Yet they hewed homes out of the wilderness and built an empire.

Perhaps the Matanuska colonists will do the same. Or perhaps they are handicapped by a too benevolent government. Perhaps, in brief, successful colonization in a new land depends more on the will and spirit of the colonists than on roads and tools. The early settlers of the west and northwest struck out and persevered in the new country because they believed in its future. They went of their own volition and as an adventure that was to mark a beginning in their lives. Matanuska was founded, at least in part, as an escape valley—an escape from depressing conditions at home. Its settlement was the result of special inducements from the government rather than of a determined spirit to conquer such as was the pioneers.

Matanuska Valley is not merely a plowing and planting project. It also is an experiment with human character in which individual initiative and enterprise will very likely again be the determining factor.

LONG WHOLESALD AN OLD SQUEEZE PLAY

One of the steady sources of income of the Long machine was blackmail of all the corporations of the state.

The procedure is not wholly new to American politics but pushing the practice as a state policy, and even advertising it, is a unique adventure for the Wax Works Room which holds the effigies to commemorate American corruption.

The procedure is simple enough. It shows, too, what may happen when one man or a gang run as one man takes hold of the helm.

Corporations in Louisiana were assessed by a corporation commission. Suddenly they found their assessments doubling. In the usual manner, and believing error or a mistaken policy was involved, the affected corporation would apply to the commission for a reduction. The reduction was invariably denied. The company was shocked at the injustice. It did not face the increase in taxation, perhaps $50,000 or $100,000, with easy feelings.

But just as it was trying to figure a new way to save itself a lawyer called upon it. He said that he had learned about its dilemma. He thought he could do something. At any rate it would be perfectly safe for the corporation to hire him since it would cost nothing unless he succeeded. If he succeeded he wanted 50 per cent of the amount saved. In most instances the corporation accepted these terms. The lawyer called upon the commission and, of course, the assessment was reduced to its former figure which had been plenty high enough. In this manner great sums of money were turned in to the members of the machine who lived like East Indian princes.

But what Louisiana needs is not an exposure of this natural corruptness that everyone expected in a machine as blatant and demagogic as that of Mr. Long's. It really needs just another Mr. Long to keep kidding it along while the people pay the bills and every legal and moral restraint, every decent principle of life and every one of the Commandments, is shattered into dust.

Why cannot dreams last forever!

THE OPEN DOOR AT SCAPA FLOW
England certainly blundered heavily at Scapa Flow in permitting a condition to exist that admitted the U-boat with its fatal torpedoes.

This becomes all the more evident when one reads "Fifty Years in the Royal Navy," a book written in 1919 by Sir Percy Scott, an English admiral, in respect to what transpired at Scapa Flow in the previous war. The author says:

"I went up to Scapa Flow in the Orkneys, November 13, 1914, and had a long interview with Sir John Jellicoe. The Grand Fleet was assembled in this harbor for strategic reasons, and also to keep the ships as far away as possible from the German submarines. The Commander-in-Chief discussed with me the terrible state of affairs, the salient point of which was that for strategic reasons he was obliged to keep the Grand Fleet at Scapa, that German airplanes had been over the harbor, and must be quite conversant with the anchorage of the Fleet and the unprotected approaches, that he was doing all he could to make the anchorage safe, but that the measures were not complete and that any night submarines might come in and send the Grand Fleet to the bottom. Why the fleet was not destroyed, I cannot imagine. Either the German submarines lacked pluck, or the German mind could not believe that we could be such fools as to place our fleet in a position where it would be open to submarine or destroyer attack."

Just let England try to send a submarine into any German base and see whether the door is wide open.

With the English tendency to somehow muddle through a great conflict we may have sympathy since lack of efficiency always accompanies democracy. But there is little or no excuse when blunders appear in the regular forces and are ascribable to professional soldiers or sailors.

Despite the fact that story, poetry and legend are full of examples of unbelievable blunders upon the part of English forces such as that which precipitated "The Charge of The Six Hundred" England has generally come through in victorious style either because of the great extent of its resources or the cool determination of its people.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—Eventime at Broadway and its intersection with the middle forties—that is the full flavor of Manhattan at its richest. Against the black curtain of night, the lights snap on—lights packed closely together in blankets of brilliant yellow and white and red; lights calling all within sight of their dazzle to theaters, restaurants, honky tonks, soft drinks and hard, chewing gum and smoking tobaccos, to wassail and to worship.

Those are the decorations. Some of them blink on and off, others weave like a nightmare's snake, while some dance and perform—machine-age puppet shows. The store windows burst with white floods of daylight, revealing every sort of merchandise from a woman's glove to huge hams and beavers that turn slowly on their spits before glowing fires.

Against this setting moves the city's life at its dizziest and swiftest pace. Taxicabs move in and out from curb, edging exists and entrances into the moving stream that fights its way north and south with the crawling, changing streetcars. Sometimes this cocktail hour time of day has its nerves spiced with the sirens of ambulance racing down the middle of the street, unheeding traffic lights. Death may be hard on the wheels of these motors of mercy, but Broadway's eventime rivers of people flow smoothly on, each person's thoughts too centered on himself to give more than a quick thought to what tragedy the ambulances may hold.

The people? Chorus girls, some with matinee makeup still on their faces, dashing for drugstore telephones to call their bookies and hear the bad news from Belmont and Harvey Grace and any other neighborhood where their pathetic dollars were wagered; office workers, scurrying toward subway kiosks, bus stations and railway terminals, ducking in and out precariously among the traffic, and exchanging curses with every cab driver who menaces their forward progress; Broadway Rose, her waking day just begun as it nears its end for so many others, wanders toward Lindy's where the song pluggers, tunemiths, actors and agents will soon be dropping by; auction shops quickly emptying, as though houseful had suddenly glanced at their watches and realized with dismay that it was nearly time to have dinner on the table; autograph hunters straggling toward stage doors to get preferred positions from which to button hole stars to write their unimportant names in unimportant autograph books; the off-the-street bars of the Astor, Piccadilly, Tavern, Casino, Dempsey's and the Lincoln coming suddenly thronged, with at least half a dozen Broadway "names" sipping something in each of them; the Andrews Sisters, who command important money wherever they sing, straddling stools at a corner lunch counter, with the check for three dinner-time meals barely a dollar; song merchant standing at the curb, studying passing faces and pouncing upon any band leaders or singers who are foolish enough to stray that way.

"I have a swell new tune you ought to try—terrific tune, terrific lyrics, terrific—terrific." That's George M. Cohan, the Yankee Doodle Boy, a grandfather and just beginning to show his years, swinging around 46th, wonder if he knows what a tough time his daughter Mary has had these last few months struggling to support herself as a night club singer—a field of entertainment which Americas No. 1 actor has always despised?

Crowds line the curb, necks angled so their eyes can follow the New York Times' electric news report that runs in a rapid ribbon of words around the building in the triangle at 42nd Street, while newsboys dart in and out among them, shouting the headlines; a limousine pauses in traffic at 49th Street, and two shopgirls stare agog at the snail's pace that falls carelessly from the shoulders of a fine lady, dinner-bound, who lolls inside, Toscanini; slips unnoticed into the 44th Street entrance of the Astor—and down the street a swarthy woman turns the handle of a grand organ that spews a Neapolitan tune into inattentive ears.

Overhead a commercial blimp blinks in red letters the injunction to "Buy Blank's Shoes." A legless man, his torso planted on a roller skate-wheeled car, pushes himself expertly through the sidewalk molasses led by a nondescript but bright-eyed little terrier.

So the most fabulous, glamorous and good Street of them all begins its day—which is Night.

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO
Thursday, Oct. 24, 1929

The most terrifying panic of selling since the war scare of 1914 dealt a crushing blow to the leading stock markets through the country that day and was checked only by prompt reassurance from America's leading bankers. All records for wild and frenzied trading were broken but prices rallied substantially during the afternoon from the lowest levels of the day. The New York stock exchange estimated that 12,880,000 shares had been traded and the ticker was nearly three hours behind at the close of the session.

Backed by the personal indorsement of President Herbert Hoover and of Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of the United States department of commerce, the Institute of Paper Chemistry, a graduate school for the training of chemists in the pulp and paper industry, was to be affected at Lawrence college, it was announced that day. The institute was the realization of an ideal cherished by Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of the college, since his connection with Lawrence in 1925.

25 YEARS AGO
Thursday, Oct. 29, 1914

The French had made progress at several points, particularly around Ypres and south of Arras. The German cruiser Emden entered Penang and sunk the Russian cruiser Jemitschug and a French destroyer, a Tokio dispatch said. A German 42 centimeter cannon on the right wing in France exploded, killing 250 men.

"If you believe in the work that President Wilson has done and is doing, return such men to him who will support him as Husting, Konop and Karel." Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan said in a speech before 1,800 persons at the armory the previous afternoon.

Chris Steidl of Fremont was in the city the previous day to purchase a 5-passenger automobile.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

SALLY ANNE

He cannot hear, she cannot speak.
And yet how plainly she Displays those dimples in her cheek,
And signals roughly!

He knows exactly what she means
When her plump arms reach out.
Above her pretty crib he leans
To carry her about.

They speak Love's language every day,
And she can understand.
The pretty words she stoops to say,
She tugs at his big hand.

He cannot hear, but she has told
The truth that makes him glad.
Though she is only six months old,
And he is her granddaddy!

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—For the benefit of ourselves and 3,000 others, the army demonstrated its latest fighting gadget to such telling effect that we are convinced that in war there is simply no place where a man can be comfortable or safe.

On a plane dropped three dozen or more small bombs all in a row, the way you sow radish seed. Strewn along a road they would have wiped out a regiment.

One big bomb, from high up, dropped a 2,000-pound bomb. It is the biggest the army uses as a regular thing, although it has some 4,000-pound jobs—very heavy as a cadillac—in reserve. The one-ton item burst a mile from where we lay hidden behind some low bushes. It smashed up the air so badly that fragments of the noise reached us like a burst of machine gun fire before the shuddering "boom" closed in on us.

It threw dirt and brush 300 feet in the air and lifted out a cone of earth into which you could have placed a two-story house. We were told that medium artillery can shell a heavy concrete bridge all day without wrecking it, but one of those 2,000-pound airplane eggs nestling into it will take out a whole section.

Where bombs fall there is no peace.

Planes Are As Bad

But with anti-aircraft artillery busy on the ground, there is no peace for the planes from which the bombs fall.

A nastier sight we never have seen than the way the muzzles of those anti-aircraft guns follow a plane across the sky. It is like snakes with head upturned, eyes open, and instruments spread over the ground in a wide triangular formation focus on the plane. The cumulative result of their "seeing eyes" is communicated to a central sighting mechanism which looks like the upper half of an iceless refrigerator, heavily studded with dials.

This mechanism digests the information and, together with data which may be supplied from other observers, transmits it to a dial on the gun. The gunners simply keep a sort of pointer on the gun following the sighting dial, and the muzzle creeps across the sky, spitting three-inch shells at the rate of one every two seconds.

From then on the clean-blue air about the plane is a thick mixture of flying shell fragments. Three targets towed across the sky in simulation of an enemy airplane were shredded by shell fire.

In turn, two tanks, armed with machine guns and small cannon, bounded across a ditchy field pouring a sizzling chain of bullets into two structures put up to look like machine gun "pill-boxes." There is no peace in pill-boxes.

Tanks Are As Bad

Yet, on the other hand, when a tank, remotely controlled, was started across the field, a cluster of anti-tank guns cut loose at it. These guns the army's newest weapon, shoot a two-pound shell about the size of three golf balls laid end to end—if you get what we mean.

The bullet's trail is phosphorescent so that it sails through the air like a red-hot shot, easy for the gunner to follow. In the core of the shell is a bursting charge of powder. The thing will smash through an inch and a half of armor plate; then burst like a rock.

That happened to the tank Fierly shot across the field, glowing like oranges. One of the first shots fired stopped the tank and another piled into its gasoline tank, setting it afire. So there is no peace in tanks.

As a final burst we saw a 16-inch coast defense gun hurl a 2,000-pound shell across the countryside. We were told that 14-inch ships armor—heavier than that worn by the ill-fated British battleship Royal Oak—sixteen-inch shells had bored a hole through it as easily as you would poke a pencil through a pancake. So there is no peace in battleships.

Then we remembered that our newest battleships will shoot nine of these 2,100-pound shells at a single volley. So there is no peace in our coast defense guns.

Where can a fellow go?

AN ALDERMAN'S LIFE

Editor Post-Crescent: I have never in my life been subject to the abuse that I have received since being elected alderman. And very odd some of these harsh statements come from men who in some way or other have it against an alderman for some reason particularly concerning their own problem. Just so, with the article in the "People's Forum," Oct. 24th, 1939.

Mr. C. A. Kaufman was one of these men. As he sought out the candidates before election for the building inspector job, and also told the new candidates, who he wanted for the President of the council, I happened to be one, who Mr. C. A. Kaufman, saw after election, and was asked by Mr. C. A. Kaufman, to contact the other aldermen, in his behalf, for the building inspector job. I refused Mr. C. A. Kaufman and told him, I would have no part in this. I did not vote for Mr. C. A. Kaufman, for building inspector,

YES, YES, SENATOR, GO ON

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—The cessation of legislative activities—much later this year than usual—shortly will bring forward increased partisan work by the representatives of the various political party organizations of Wisconsin who realized during the legislative months that their enunciations would get scant public attention while the political fires raged under the capitol dome.

Early and persistently vigorous attacks are promised from the Progressive party front. As the principal opposition party, the LaFollette organization held its fire during the long session, not only because it badly needed patching up in many spots before it could rally forth to do battle again, but also because the headquarters generalship felt that Heil's problem were nor would I, with the knowledge I had of his interests.

And now concerning salaries: You elected six new aldermen and twelve new supervisors. Their pay all comes out of the taxes. All the Appleton aldermen asked, was for the legality of setting salaries in April, by the people, or by the aldermen. And that is what they got. I said, at a meeting of the aldermen on this question, that if the referendum would have specified to take effect in 1940, I would not question its legality, and my views were upheld by a number of aldermen.

Mr. C. A. Kaufman says "how many of our present aldermen spend 20 hours a month for city service?"

I know that every alderman spends at least 80 hours a month, in city service. And some of them many hours more. I do not expect big pay for my work on the council, but I do want to be compensated fairly for what I do. I have kept track of all my time since elected and have averaged 80 hours a month; without this month, I have had in October, two regular council meetings, one informal council meeting, three relief meetings, three recreational meetings, and one to attend Wednesday evening.

Of course, meetings do not cover all your time, such as people who call me up at home, and whose homes I have visited because of complaints, for which these people have every right to expect my presence. And I firmly believe each alderman should do all he can to remedy their problems; which is part of the alderman's job. I certainly wish more people would attend our council meetings to see how their city is run and what is really done. Everything I have done has been for the best interest of the people of the 16th Ward and the citizens of Appleton.

I have not received any complaints from my people of the 16th Ward. And I'm sure they should have the right to complain first.

My term is for one year and if the people of the 16th Ward, do not want me for their alderman again, I will be purely up to them. Not someone who is bitter against me, alderman should do all he can to remedy their problems; which is part of the alderman's job. I certainly wish more people would attend our council meetings to see how their city is run and what is really done. Everything I have done has been for the best interest of the people of the 16th Ward and the citizens of Appleton.

Outagamie County Council Of Legion Auxiliary Maps Living Snow Fence Project

OUTAGAMIE county council of American Legion auxiliaries will sponsor a project of "living snow fences" to take the place of the fences now in use throughout the county, if permission can be secured, it was decided at a meeting of the council last night at the Legion club house. The project calls for the planting of trees along the roads where snow fences now are erected.

A committee was appointed to confer with Arnold Krueger, county highway commissioner, and to secure permission from the various farmers on whose property the trees would have to be planted. The committee includes Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, chairman; Mrs. Walter Specht, Kaukauna; and Mrs. Arthur Zuehlke, Seymour. The trees will be given to the council by the state, and the council and individual auxiliary units would be responsible for their planting and upkeep.

Mrs. S. C. Shannon, executive secretary of Outagamie county chapter of the American Red Cross, explained the aims and purposes of the Red Cross and pointed out the similarity in its work to that of the American Legion and auxiliary. Plans were made for a patriotic dinner in February at which each county unit will decorate a table and invite members of civic organizations to attend. Mrs. H. W. Miller is chairman of the event.

Teddy Slater, a member of the junior auxiliary, gave several humorous readings. Eighty women from various units in Outagamie county were present. Cards were played following the dinner and prizes won at auction bridge by Mrs. H. W. Farrand and Mrs. George Culligan, at contract by Mrs. William Laux, at schafkopf by Mrs. Catherine Nooyen and Mrs. Margaret Shumek and at rummy by Mrs. John Witthuhn. Black Creek, Mrs. Ray Curry was chairman of the dining room and Mrs. Shumek of the kitchen.

Mrs. Sylvester Esler, 416 W. Parkway boulevard, entertained the afternoon review club Wednesday afternoon at her home. Mrs. Karel Richmond gave a review of the opera, "The Barber of Seville," and also spoke of one of its most famous singers, Feodor Chalapin. Others present at the meeting were Mrs. Armin Albrecht, Mrs. George Beckley, Jr., Mrs. Victor Schappke and Mrs. Wilmer Stach, Appleton; and Mrs. Harold Kriekard, Neenah. Mrs. Charles Thompson, Elmhurst, Ill., was a guest. Mrs. Beckley will be hostess to the club in two weeks at her home, 314 W. Foster street.

Appleton chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will meet at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. M. Howser, 1633 W. Spencer street. Mrs. John Ballet will present the program reviewing "Zone Gale's" book, "Frank Miller Missionary." Dues will be payable at the meeting.

Mrs. Harold Stout and Mrs. Herman Canisius were guests when Mrs. Urban Marr, 1019 N. Fair street, entertained the What-Not club at a Halloween party Wednesday night at her home. Bridge prizes were awarded to Mrs. Stout, Mrs. Melvin Wegner, Mrs. Roland Parker and Mrs. John Fentz. The next meeting will be next Wednesday with Mrs. Parker, W. Prospect avenue.

The second of a series of programs on America given at the meeting of the Tuesday Study club yesterday afternoon at Mrs. G. Q. Ewen's home, 426 E. Atlantic street. Mrs. W. O. Thiede presented the program. The subject will be continued by Mrs. Charles Clark at the Nov. 8 meeting of the club. Mrs. Charles Flory will be hostess.

Happy-Go-Lucky sewing club held its first meeting last night at the home of Rosalind Frederick, 1019 S. Kerman avenue. Members of the club which will meet every week are Anita Hoppe, Bernice Goehler, Pearl Frederick, Clara Schaefer, Mary and Margaret Grishaber and Rosalind Frederick. Next Wednesday Pearl Frederick, 1102 S. Kerman avenue, will be hostess.

Miss Lucille Schultz, 1028 W. Harris street, entertained J. T. S. club last night at her home. After sewing the group played cards and prizes were won by Mrs. Hugo Redlin and Miss Armita Bohl. In two weeks Mrs. Redlin, 615 W. Summer street will be hostess.

THE birthday anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt will be commemorated by Charles O. Baer auxiliary to United Spanish War Veterans with a 6:30 pot-luck supper Friday night at the armory. Members of Charles O. Baer camp and their wives as well as auxiliary members and their husbands have been invited to attend.

The committee on arrangements includes Mrs. Aaron Zerbel, Mrs. Matt Bauer, Mrs. Marie Otto, Mrs. Wilbur Kuborn and Mrs. Frances Schendler.

Guest night will be observed at the next Star meeting, on Nov. 8. Visiting matrons and patrons will assist with the work. The meeting will be preceded by a 6:30 dinner in honor of Mr. Wagg.

Judge E. V. Werner gave an address entitled "What Constitutes a Good Citizen?" at the harvest supper sponsored by Konicmic lodge, Order of Odd Fellows, and Deborah Rebekah lodge last night at Odd Fellow hall. Cards and dancing followed the dinner which was attended by 160 persons.

Star's Voice Was Matured In Girlhood

THE professional career of Gladys Swarthout, who appears at Memorial chapel Monday night, dates back to when she was only 13 years old.

At that age, she pinned up her curls, calmly told the choirmaster of a Kansas City church that she was 19 years old and would like the position as contralto soloist in his choir.

When the choirmaster heard her singing, he was torn between the mature quality and loveliness of her voice and the youthfulness of her appearance. He was pretty sure she was not 19—in fact, not even 18. But he gave her the job.

Miss Swarthout, in reminiscing to her friends, has related that she wanted the job as contralto soloist in that choir from the time she was seven years old.

The choirmaster was not the first to be misled by the maturity of the girl's voice. When she was only nine years old and would sometimes answer the telephone, friends who were calling couldn't believe it was the voice of a young girl.

Miss Swarthout believes she was "born with a mature voice." She did not have to work hard to develop her voice, but she did exert great effort to acquire the finesse required for an artistic interpretation of operatic roles.

Shawn, Company Choose Farm As Site for Their Preparation

TED SHAWN, celebrated dancer, and his company of men, who will appear at Memorial chapel the night of Nov. 13, spent the summer at Jacob's Pillow, Shawn's farm and school in western Massachusetts, creating new dances and keeping fit for their fall and winter tours.

Three winters ago they established a studio in the lake region of Florida. It is Shawn's plan to spend six weeks each winter at this studio, thus breaking the long, arduous tours of each season.

Among Shawn's subjects this last summer were "Excursion into Visible Song," "Creative Approach to The Dance," and "Abstract Values in The Dance."

On this remote farm, the boys and Shawn live a life of Spartan simplicity. They do all the work on the farm—gardening, carpentering, painting, road and cement work, cutting firewood. They have dammed a mountain stream to make an outdoor swimming pool. The physical labor and studio work is only a portion of the strenuous training and daily routine. Each day there are hours of reading, study, and research under Shawn's guidance.

Red Cross Seeks Workers to Make Refugees' Clothes

EXECUTIVE Board Will Meet to Arrange Financing of Materials
The board of directors of the Outagamie county chapter of the American Red Cross will meet at 4:30 Friday afternoon at 104 E. College avenue to arrange for the financing of materials for clothing for Polish refugees in foreign countries, according to Mrs. Mabel O. Shannon, executive secretary.

The board will be enlarged in preparation for the annual Red Cross roll call which will begin Nov. 11 and will end Nov. 30. The roll call quota was hiked this year from 2,200 members to 3,200 members because of the need for increased funds this year.

Mrs. Shannon asked for volunteer workers to prepare needed clothing for refugees. The Red Cross will furnish the materials. She urged individuals and organizations to contact the Red Cross office if they wish to offer their services.

The quota of clothing for Outagamie county must be completed by Jan. 1 and includes 30 men's sweaters, 20 women's sweaters, 30 children's sweaters, 20 women's dresses and 30 girls' dresses. Hospital clothing, sheets, blankets maintained at an electrical party at 7:45 Friday night in the church parlors. Mr. and Mrs. John Goodrich are chairman of the sponsoring committee.

Community Needs Recreation Plan, Association Told

Kenosha Official Explains How Program Can be Launched, Financed

Strengthening the need of guided recreation in this age of leisure hours, and the community's responsibility of providing that recreation, G. M. Phelan, recreational director of the city of Kenosha, gave the Appleton Civic association, at its open-meeting Wednesday night at Memorial school, practical suggestions as to how to get a recreational program for Appleton and what to include in it.

According to state statutes, there are two methods by which a city can get an organized city-wide recreational program, he said. The first is by referendum, in which case the council is obligated to appropriate a certain sum to the recreation department each year, the amount not to exceed eight-tenths of a mill tax. If Appleton adopted this method and asked for the full appropriation to which it is entitled by law, there would be a little less than $40,000 available each year for recreation, he said. Another requirement under this system is that the recreation department be under the board of education.

The only other way to get a civic recreation program according to statute, Mr. Phelan continued, is for the common council to appropriate any sum of money, the amount not designated, from the general fund to any existing department to be used for a recreation program.

In addition to the finances, which are, of course, important, the requisites for a recreation program, he said, are facilities and leadership.

Kenosha Uses Schools
The schools provide the facilities in most cities that have a recreational program, he declared. Kenosha, for instance, believes that school buildings are public property and should be available for all worthwhile public purposes. Therefore the recreation department in that city has the use, free of charge, of from 130 to 200 school rooms weekly. Its only expenses are for janitor's fee, for leadership and for a large share of the equipment, such as balls and table games.

One of the many questions that were showered upon Mr. Phelan when he had concluded his address was "What about the depreciation in the school buildings? Are they much damaged by the public's daily use of them?"

The speaker answered, "No," and pointed out that buildings were like cars. They depreciated over the years whether much or little use was made of them. He said of the buildings that they were too much of an investment to lock up.

Diversified Program

"Make your program diversified enough to cover the interests of a large section of the population," the recreational director advised. "All people aren't athletic. There are more Appleton boys interested in handicraft than in athletics and probably as many interested in music as in athletics."

He discovered that, he said, in a survey made of 14-year-old boys, only 36 per cent of whom found athletics their favorite recreation, while 40 per cent preferred handicraft—such activities as model airplane and amateur radio building, first aid and woodwork.

If a community can offer only a few activities in its recreation program, it might select them by analysis based on the following questions, Mr. Phelan suggested:

"Is some other organization already offering this activity? Is it more character building than some others? Is it a very expensive activity? Have we capable leadership for it?"

Avoid Faction
While the activity must be "sold" to the community to make it a success, the speaker warned against cheap publicity and ballyhoo. He also cautioned against factional groups, and said it was to avoid such factions that Kenosha hired a musician from Chicago to lead its civic chorus, part of the recreation program, rather than the leader of some local church choir.

As an example of what a community can do in the line of recreation for its citizens, Mr. Phelan outlined the recreational program he knows best, that of Kenosha. So excellent is the cooperation between the recreation department and private organizations there, he said, that the 180 softball teams that play each summer have their equipment furnished by the unions and much of their coaching by the American Legion. All the recreation department has to provide is the balls.

In addition to the playgrounds, the summer program at Kenosha also includes a pageant and picnics. The recreation department assists with almost every picnic held during the summer, from little Sunday school affairs to large industrial picnics attended by hundreds of persons.

The winter program opens in October, Mr. Phelan explained. This far this year 48 senior basketball teams and over 50 indoor baseball teams have registered. The schools are opened from 5 to 6 o'clock each evening for private groups, such as office teams or business men's or lawyers' groups, and again at 7 o'clock in the evening for the civic recreation program, open to the public. On some nights just the gymnasium is used, and on other nights, the entire building. The winter program includes an orchestra, a chorus, boxing and wrestling, game rooms which provide table tennis, chess and such games, social dancing, tap dancing, a little theater, community dances and parties and dartball tournaments.

Clergyman Presides
The Rev. Robert K. Bell, pastor of Memorial Presbyterian church, presided at the meeting, which was attended by representatives of most of Appleton's civic organizations.

In answer to questions asked after his lecture, Mr. Phelan said that leaders at Kenosha were paid from 50 cents to $10 a night, depending upon the activity and the type of leadership they offered. He also explained that the recreation department

Swanson Begins Taking Pictures For Safety Film

New Movie Will Carry Out Theme of Pedestrian Safety

About 500 feet of film has been taken for the new safety picture being made in connection with the safety program in Appleton schools, according to Guy J. Barlow, principal of Wilson school and chairman of the safety program in the schools.

R. L. Swanson, an instructor at Wilson school has been released from his regular work at the school to take the picture which is scheduled for completion probably in December, Barlow said.

The motion picture is a sequel to "Handle Bar Hazards" which was filmed by Swanson last year and will carry out the theme of pedestrian safety for adults as well as school youngsters.

It will carry out the idea that adults are as much to blame for pedestrian accidents as children and will point out that children are being educated in the ways of safety while adults do nothing to practice it.

The plot is built around a father and son who get into an argument on safety following a fatal pedestrian accident in which an adult is killed. The son tells the father of the safety program in the schools and scenes in the picture show what is being done in the classrooms.

The school board is giving the services of Swanson and the city council is furnishing $200 to finance the film. The picture was promoted through the new citizens' safety committee. Aiding Swanson are the Appleton Police department and Louis Luebke, city electrician, who built the floodlighting equipment.

ment did not compete with but cooperated with such other civic organizations as churches, lodges, unions, schools, the Girl and Boy Scouts and the Youth Foundation.

Cities in this vicinity that have organized full-time recreation programs are Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Two Rivers, Manitowish and Sheboygan, he said.

At an executive committee meeting after the lecture, a skating rink committee consisting of the Rev. John Hanna, Miss Dorothy Petron and William J. Flaherty was appointed. J. R. Whitman, Mrs. T. I. Orison and John R. Riedl compose the committee which is to work together with a similar committee from the common council and school board to make a survey of the recreational needs of Appleton and suggest a definite program to the civic association.

Other committees will be appointed at an executive meeting at 5 o'clock next Monday afternoon at Abraham Sigman's office.

NEW SUDS HELPS Color Stay in Stockings!

A SERIOUS CAUSE of faded stockings now found to be the alkali in soap suds. So suds your stockings with Vel, marvelous new hard-water suds made by Colgate for fine fabrics. Vel is not a soap. Contains no alkali to fade the delicate color of stockings. Makes big suds in cold water, thus ideal for all fine fabrics.

See Vel make mountains of billowy suds, yet it leaves no ring around the bowl, showing that Vel also leaves no soap-scum in fabrics to dull the sheen and cause that "cottony" look.

Ideal for all fine fabrics because Vel washes things clean and leaves a newer-looking luster. They last longer and keep their silky luster.

NOW see stockings keep their delicate sheerness and fresh color, amazingly longer. See woolens and undergar regains bride-like freshness and color! Colored prints sing with radiant sparkle! Results are startling because science has found a way to make a wonderful new hard-water suds performer, the Colgate Vel, that contains no alkali to fade colors. And Vel can't form ruinous soap-scum to cause that "cottony" look in fine fabrics.

You can feel this slippery, slimy scum in soap suds. But these amazing new Vel suds feel soft and pure. That's because Vel is not a soap. It's a special new hard-water suds performer, the Colgate Vel, that contains as many times more suds than expensive soap suds in hardest water. And it makes hardest water act soft as rainwater.

Moreover Vel makes abundant suds in cold water—so Vel is ideal for fine fabrics.

You can see why Vel is better than the finest soap suds for fine fabrics, because Vel does not form a ring of soap-scum around the bowl. That proves Vel can't leave ruinous soap-scum in your stockings and underwear and woolens, to give dingy things that "cottony" look, and because Vel contains no alkali, it helps colors keep fresh much longer.

So easy on hands, too, because Vel is neutral—contains no acid, no alkali to irritate the skin.

It even outlasts pure soap 2 to 1 in hardest water! Buy Vel today at grocers. Made and guaranteed by Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company.

TRY VEL AND YOU'LL NEVER GO BACK TO SOAP AND WATER SOFTENERS!

The truck will leave from Armory G.

After tomorrow, applications should be made at the office of Major Thomas G. Poland, federal building, Green Bay.

Lieutenant Thorkelson and 16 enlisted men make up the recruiting party which arrived yesterday morning from Green Bay and set up recruiting headquarters at the armory.

Growth at Demonstration The demonstration of the huge anti-aircraft searchlight in front of the armory last night brought out a big crowd. A public address system was hooked up and an officer answered questions about the piece of equipment. Appleton residents yesterday and last night evinced considerable interest in the anti-aircraft gun for anti-aircraft work which was mounted on College avenue. There, too, the enlisted men in the recruiting detail were kept busy dealing out facts about the equipment.

The recruiting detail will be in Oshkosh tomorrow and Saturday and will go from there to Fond du Lac.

Major Poland, who is in charge of the Green Bay district of the organized reserves, said this morning that the United States army has ordered 18 specially built trailers for recruiting work and that two will be consigned to the Sixth Corps area, which includes Wisconsin.

The trailers will be equipped with modern living quarters for the officers and enlisted men who make up the recruiting parties.

Moscow — (P) — The American freighter City of Flint remained at Murmansk today pending "precise verification" of her cargo, Tass news agency announced.

The German prize crew of 18, which took the ship to the Soviet Russian port in the Arctic ocean Monday, has not been released from internment but not to board the City of Flint again.

Meanwhile the Russian government protested against the British contraband list, calling it a violation of the principles of international law and reserving the right to claim compensation for Russian losses resulting from its enforcement.

The note, handed to British Ambassador Sir William Seeds, declared that merchant ships of the U. S. S. R. being state property, "for this reason alone should not be subjected to any measures of compulsion applied to privately owned merchant ships."

Relief, Welfare Council Drive to Be Held Saturday

Boys Scouts of Appleton District Will Call at Residences

Boy scouts of the Appleton district Saturday will make their annual solicitation of Appleton homes for the relief and welfare council of the city.

Residents will be asked to contribute such articles as furniture, shoes, and clothing which they no longer use but which can be repaired and distributed among needy families in the city.

The articles will not be picked up until a week from Saturday, Nov. 4, giving residents a week in which to prepare their donations for transportation.

Scouts this Saturday will carry tally sheets with them on which to mark down addresses of people who promise to contribute. On the following Saturday, the scouts, in co-operation with the Appleton street department which will furnish trucks, will call at the various homes and pick up the articles.

The donations will be taken to the Appleton relief department, where they will be sorted and those which are usable will be repaired. It has been suggested that residents recognize the fact that the furniture, shoes, clothing and other articles must be in good enough shape to be repaired and used over again and that mere junk is only burdening to the scouts and the relief department. There have been years when nearly half of the material donated had to be thrown out by the relief department.

The relief and welfare council was scheduled to meet this afternoon at city hall to talk over plans for the drive.

In a note replying to the British notification of contraband lists, Vladimir Potemkin, vice commissar for foreign affairs, declared the list "gravely impairs the interests of neutral countries and destroys international trade."

Cloudy Weather, Occasional Rain Tonight, Friday

Fog Blankets Appleton And Vicinity Early This Morning

Townpeople thinned their way about early this morning in a fog that was as thick as the proverbial pea soup and revealed anything that London could produce. The blanket faded into a light mist as the day progressed but there was no indication that the sun (Remember it?) would put in an appearance before Saturday.

Cloudy weather with occasional rain is predicted for tonight and Friday with cooler temperatures tomorrow.

Warmer temperatures prevailed today to make the damp, dull weather less disagreeable. High point for the 24-hour period preceding 9 o'clock this morning was 54 degrees at that time while the low was 38 degrees at midnight, according to records at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company. Mercury in the thermometer on the roof of the Post-Crescent building had crawled to the 58-degree mark early this afternoon.

Maximum and minimum temperatures in the nation yesterday were 90 degrees at Shreveport, La., and San Antonio, Texas, and 4 degrees at Havre, Mont., according to the Associated Press.

UNUSUAL WEATHER

Chicago — (P) — Indian summer continued its post-seasonal splurge of warmth today, laying the heat upon most of the nation with a prodigal hand.

The dogged old trumper of the calendar denied the boon of short-sleeved and picnic weather only to the region of the Rockies and the extreme northern plains. Temperatures plummeted in those areas.

G. E. Dunn, United States weather bureau forecaster, said abnormally mild weather covered most of Colorado, New Mexico, Kansas, Iowa, Wisconsin and the areas eastward to the Atlantic coast and into the south New England was only slightly less warm.

Chicago's temperatures were in the middle seventies, among the highest for Oct. 26 in weather bureau history.

Dunn said observations indicated that the unusually mild weather would continue for several days throughout most of the eastern part of the nation and the south. Elsewhere, he forecast, the excessive warmth would be tempered somewhat by coolness and showers tomorrow.

DEATHS

MRS. GEORGIANNA OUDENHOVEN Mrs. Georgianna Oudenhoven, 64, died at the home of her son, Frank, Kimberly, at 9:30 this morning after a lingering illness. She was born in Grand Chute, Jan. 24, 1875, and resided in Kimberly since 1916, moving there from North Dakota. She was a member of the Christian Mothers society.

Surviving are five daughters, Mrs. Jacob Lamers, Little Chute; Mrs. Corneal Van Hout, Appleton; Mrs. Arthur Boehme, Milwaukee; Mrs. Harold Deltman, Milwaukee; Mrs. Christian Oudenhoven, Kimberly; five sons, Frank, Anthony, Kimberly; Henry, Peter, Appleton.

Funeral services will be conducted at 9 o'clock Saturday morning at Holy Name church by the Rev. C. B. Vandenberg. Burial will be in the parish cemetery. The body will be at the Frank Oudenhoven residence. Rosary will be recited at 7:30 Thursday and Friday evenings at the church and at the residence.

REPORT OPERATOR ESCAPED

Bergen, Norway — Reports received here today indicated the American radio operator of the City of Flint, United States ship captured by the Germans, escaped the craft at Tromsø where survivors of the sinking British steamer Stonegate were put ashore.

The reports said he mixed with members of the British crew and wandered off the ship. The City of Flint, captured in mid-ocean by a German warship and boarded by a prize crew, first stopped at Tromsø to put off the crew of the Stonegate who had been picked up by the City of Flint. The British ship had been sunk by a German craft. The Flint later was sailed to the Russian port of Murmansk by the prize crew.

The present whereabouts of the radio man and his name were not immediately available.

"That it sounded like feudin' up in the northern end of the county last night when a father and son got into an argument about who owned seven head of cattle grazing on the farm on which the son resided and which it is reported is owned by the father. When the argument grew hot, another son became embroiled in the scene with a rifle. Several shots rang out into the air. Fists flew and several of the participants were unable to display bumps today. The sheriff's department is investigating the matter.

Education Week's Program Outlined For AEA Council

Appleton Observances to Be Extended Beyond Public Schools

Plans for observance of American Education week, Nov. 5-11, by the Appleton public schools were announced at a meeting of the teachers council of the Appleton Education association last night at Morgan school.

Minuteographed drafts of the week's outline of speeches, special programs, and publicity have been completed by the public relations committee of the association of which Roland Nock, principal of Morgan school, is chairman. Other members of the committee are A. G. Meating, Mrs. Mabel Meyer, and Sidney A. Cotton.

"Education for the American Way of Life" will be the theme of the week's program, which will be extended to churches, service clubs, parent-teacher groups, the public press, and business houses in Appleton.

Plans are being studied for a radio program the night of Nov. 9 in which school officials, members of the board of education, and the high school band and orchestra will appear.

Special speakers will talk on educational topics at meetings of the city's service clubs and PTA organizations are mapping programs that will carry out the "Education for the American Way of Life" theme.

Grade and junior high schools are working on a schedule for visits to classes by parents and after-school talks with teachers during the week.

Wilson Junior High school will hold a "go to school" night meeting Monday night, Nov. 6. A quiz program will be conducted and a motion picture shown.

McKinley Junior High school's parent program will be Wednesday evening, Nov. 8. Aimee Zilmer, a representative of the state board of health, will be the speaker. E. J. Rohan, superintendent of schools, will be the speaker at a joint meeting of the Roosevelt and Edison PTAs Monday night, Nov. 13. Objectives of the week's program also will be the subject of speeches before service clubs in the city.

Home room discussions in schools will center on the following topics during the week: Nov. 6, "Education for Self Realization"; Nov. 7, "Education for Human Relationship"; Nov. 8, "Education for Economic Efficiency"; Nov. 9, "Education for Civic Responsibility"; Nov. 10, "Cultivating the Love of Learning." Leaflets on National Education week and its aims will be distributed among children for reading by their parents.

Special observances at Appleton High school will include editorials and articles in the weekly paper, presentation of the junior play, daily conducted tours of the building and classes by parents and other visitors, and the radio program, details of which have not been settled. Principal H. H. Helbig will lecture to home rooms on the "Significance of Public Education."

Newspaper articles have been prepared on the subjects listed earlier under topics to be discussed in home rooms.

"The Place of Religion in Our Democracy" is the topic which churches are expected to consider during National Education week.

Posters will be purchased by the Appleton Education association and displayed by Appleton merchants.

Britain Ready to Fight to Finish, Chamberlain Says laughed at this remark of the prime minister. He was in the diplomatic gallery as was Giuseppe Bastianini, the new Italian ambassador.

"Why," Chamberlain exclaimed, "what a change is here! Let me read two sentences from Herr von Ribbentrop's address to the press when he first came to England in 1936.

Quotes Ribbentrop "Germany wants to be friends with Great Britain and I think the British people also wish for German friendship. The German people are convinced that there is only one real danger to Europe and to the British Empire as well—that is the spreading of communism, this most terrible of all diseases—terrible because people generally seem to realize its danger only when it is too late."

There was loud laughter in the house.

Homecoming Festivities Will Start Friday With Pep Session

Festivities will begin Friday afternoon for the annual homecoming of Appleton High school which, if present plans materialize, will surpass even last year's celebration. Students of the high school will assemble Friday for a pep assembly in the auditorium. The rally will be conducted by Armin Schaeuble, who is homecoming chairman this year.

In the evening enthusiasts will gather around a bonfire to sing and cheer. Mayor John Goodland, Jr., will speak for the city; H. H. Helbig, principal, for the high school; Coach Myron Seims, for the team; and Wesley Morris, a June graduate, for the alumni. After the rally students will conduct a small dance back to the downtown district. Committees are already at work gathering wood for the bonfire in Schneider's field across from the high school on Badger avenue.

At 10:30 Saturday morning floats will assemble at the Morgan school and will progress down Drew street over to College avenue to Drexel street. The procession will then move to Lawrence street to Oneida street and finally will move down the avenue again to Park street. Groups which have registered floats include the Commercial club, the Girl Reserves, Curtin Call, the Nature club, the Girls Athletic association, and the Delta, Roth and Badger H-Y's.

When the floats re-assemble at Park street near the Lawrence college chapel, the winning entries will be announced. Judges for the occasion are Charles E. Pond, Otto H. Fischer, and William Petersen. The game in the afternoon at Whiting field will be a clash between the Terrors and East Green Bay. Home rooms are submitting slogans to be used for the contest. A dance will be held in the gymnasium in the evening.

The $5,000,000 relief bill, will be affected by the court's decision.

To a large measure, the question of a special session of the legislature hangs upon the court's ruling.

Should Helwig win, the chances of a special session to balance the budget are remote. The state, however, is operating on such a low cash balance that if Zimmerman were ordered to publish the pension and relief bills as the legislature passed them, the governor might decide a special session was necessary.

Action of the special legislative interim tax committee, named to draft a deficiency bill, also awaits the outcome of the case.

Yesterday Assembly Speaker Vernon Thomson (R) Richmond Center, a member of the committee, said no meetings would be held until the court decision cleared the financial picture.

Governor Helwig informed Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman by letter today that he would allow him to select his own attorney to represent him before the supreme court.

Ordinarily the governor names counsel when a suit is brought against a state officer.

"In view of the differences that exist between us," the governor wrote, "I do not want to be placed in the position of selecting your counsel. I shall reserve the right, however, to fix the compensation he is to receive."

laughed at this remark of the prime minister. He was in the diplomatic gallery as was Giuseppe Bastianini, the new Italian ambassador.

"Why," Chamberlain exclaimed, "what a change is here! Let me read two sentences from Herr von Ribbentrop's address to the press when he first came to England in 1936.

There was loud laughter in the house.

No Warnings Given Chamberlain, speaking of the German war against shipping, declared today "it seems now to have become the rule for merchant ships to be sunk without warning."

"No words are strong enough to express our detestation of this form of warfare," the prime minister said of German submarine attacks in his weekly war report.

In the last week, five British ships totaling 27,715 tons have been sunk, the prime minister said. He declared, however, that 28,367 tons of German shipping had been "arrested" and, in addition, one ship scuttled herself so Germany lost 33,000 tons.

He also confirmed that the British steamer Stonegate had been sunk by the German pocket battleship Deutschland "some time ago, but information of this loss has only just reached us."

However, Chamberlain declared German submarines have been unable to attain the rate of sinking they reached at the beginning of the war and "have been driven to operate further and further from their bases."

In addition he said "destruction of enemy submarines is being maintained at a sufficiently high rate to encourage us to believe that this menace to our trade will eventually be overcome."

Reelect McCarty State Secretary Of Police Chiefs

Association Reiterates Approval of State-Wide Radio System

R. H. McCarty, Kaukauna postmaster and former chief, was re-elected secretary of the Wisconsin Chiefs of Police association today at the annual convention being held at Milwaukee. Joseph T. Kluchess, Milwaukee, was re-elected president; William H. McCormick, Madison, vice president; and George H. Ilage, Whitefish Bay, treasurer.

The association adopted a resolution reiterating approval of a state-wide police radio system and asked Governor Helwig to include the matter in any call he might issue for a special session of the legislature. The association was told that automobile thefts after showing a decrease from 1930 to 1937, have increased in the last two years.

Circuit Judge William F. Shaughnessy told the association last night that solution of the crime problem lies in the "understanding and sympathetic" education of youth.

Judge Shaughnessy said the most important part of police work is the prevention of crime.

Dr. Herman A. Heise, Milwaukee, originator of urinalysis tests to determine drunkenness, told the association that even small amounts of liquor affect a motorist's judgment.

Kaukauna Squad Drills Hard for W. DePere Game

Win Next Week Will Give Little's Team Unbroken Record

Kaukauna — Remembering the last time a Kaukauna squad invaded West DePere, the Kaws are showing no signs of a let down as they practice for the concluding conference game Wednesday afternoon. A win will give them a record of six victories and no defeats in Northeastern Wisconsin conference play, and give Coach Paul Little his sixth title in eleven years, and his second in two years.

In 1937 the Kaws went down before the Black Phantoms, 19 to 6. Kaukauna took an early lead when Bill Peterson ran 63 yards to the 4-yard line, where in four plays Karl Kobussen bucked over for the score. But Connie Berken and a veteran supporting team came back to make the game a rout.

Berken and his teammates were graduated next year, and last season the Kaws won over West here in their march to the championship. This season the Phantoms have only a victory over Clintonville on the right side of the slate.

Will Follow Team

High school students will be dismissed in order to follow the team to West DePere. This year has shown the greatest interest in the gridiron, with several hundred seeing each game away from home. Kaukauna spirit was capped in the crucial game at Shawano, when the now rooting section almost matched that of the Indians.

Kaukauna's running attack, which may be called the best the conference has ever seen, will be emphasized in practices this week. The Kaws have let opponents do the passing — throwing only half as many as the opposition — but have been unstoppable on the ground.

Except for minor ailments the squad came through last Saturday's battle in good shape and should be at top strength for the DePere battle, with the possible exception of John Velte, regular tackle who has been out of action with a leg injury. The Bulldog battle will go down as the surprise of the season. With a clean conference slate and an unbroken line New London was given a chance to upset the Kaws. Instead the Littlemen pushed over four touchdowns in the first half without much trouble.

Normal School Seniors Class Will Stage Play

Kaukauna — The senior class of Outagamie Rural Normal school will present "George in a Jam," a 3-act play, Nov. 28 at the school. Harold Zimmerman of Bear Creek is directing the play, with Colia Lemke of Hortonville business manager. In the cast are Arlene Radke, Montello Mildred Jenkins, Seymour, Frances Walker, Gertrude Green and Lester Pardee. Kaukauna, Joan Flanagan, Bear Creek, Edsel Birdsall, Neenah, and Alvin Brandenburgh Oconto Falls.

Cast Is Selected for St. Mary C.Y.O. Comedy

Kaukauna — The cast for "Small Town Romance," the comedy to be given by St. Mary's C.Y.O., has been named by the Rev. Michael Drexler, assistant pastor of St. Mary's church, in charge of the production. Those who have parts are Grace Nagan, Leo Weigman, Luke Martin, Norbert Becker, Floyd Hooyman, L. Oliva, Josephine Tennessee, Betty Verfurth and Jeanette O'Donnell.

Legion's Membership Committee Will Meet

Kaukauna — Membership committee of American Legion, Kaukauna Post No. 41, will meet at 7:30 Friday evening at Legion hall. Members will bring dues they have collected, and will discuss the aerial round-up of Nov. 11.

Work of Wisconsin Author Among New Books at Library

New London—With the publication in March, 1937, of "Still is the Summer Night" August Derleth, Sauk City writer, staked out Wisconsin as his claim in American fiction. Following that novel and its successor, "Wind over Wisconsin," the New London Public Library now offers Mr. Derleth's most recent book, "Restless is the River," in new volumes added to the shelves this week.

The story begins in Hungary in 1840 when Count Brogmor, who has taken up the cause of the common people against Hapsburg tyranny, is warned that he must flee the country. So Brogmor, his wife, his infant son and his parents set out for America and Wisconsin, the land in which distant relatives had settled years ago.

The author of several famous Jewish books, Naomi Jacob, has written the story of a man who was not a Jew but who pretended to be one because he felt it would be an asset in business. The leading character, Louis Silver, in his determination to win back the fortune his father lost through stupidity and greed, chooses whatever ruthless methods come to hand in the novel, "This Peculiar Clay."

"Sondra O'More" by Barrett Willoughby is a story of a girl, an old man, and a land and sea story of Alaskan fisheries. The author is the first native Alaskan to have written of Alaska, and has won her place as a novelist through the publication of an earlier book "Spawn of the North."

Joseph C. Lincoln, in collaboration with his son, Freeman, a combination of authors that has produced many best-sellers, now offer "The Owlney Inn," a fresh and salty story with the excitement of a real mystery.

"White Magic" by Faith Baldwin is a romance on skis in a setting of snow and mountains and the brilliant frosty nights of Sun Valley where three groups of people are drawn into close and dangerous relationships.

Readers who liked the earlier "Anne of Green Gables" books will enjoy "Anne of Ingleside" by L. M. Montgomery.

"The Crying Sisters" is the title of a new murder mystery by Mabel Seely, with its setting a resort in northern Minnesota, a spot so peaceful it was a glaring contrast to the horrible murders that took place.

President Allen appointed Claude Johnson, Reid McLean and Dr. A. M. Christofferson as a committee to draw up by-laws.

It was decided to have the field surveyed and the members agreed to have T. E. Jones of the University of Wisconsin submit plans for laying out the field.

After the plans for the new project have been approved by the board, it will go before the city council with a request for appropriations.

The first sentence of death imposed by a federal court in the United States was passed in New Bern, N. C., in 1793, when four sailors were hanged for mutiny at Ocracoke Island, N. C.

At the beginning of this year, the number of horses on farms was the smallest in 60 years and the number of mules was estimated to be the smallest in 30 years.

City of Flint Seizure Shows Need for Control of Shipping

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—Those who would have preferred to repeal all neutrality legislation and "go back to international law" have a stern object lesson in the seizing of the City of Flint.

This incident could not have occurred had the pending neutrality bill been in effect, because neither the City of Flint nor any other American ship could have been sailing for an English port.

What is international law? It is actually whatever you can get away with, whatever you can make stick. Under international law the City of Flint had a full right to carry contraband. Under international law the Germans had a full right to seize her.

All you get out of international law under such circumstances are inflammatory headlines like this: "U. S. upholds seized ship; declares freighter sailed legally." And the average reader naturally jumps to the conclusion that we have been outraged by Germany. Only by reading down in the fine type does he discover that Germany seized the ship legally and that, as a matter of fact, the British have been seizing our ships and at this moment actually hold "three or four" according to the U. S. maritime commission.

Those ships sailed legally, too, and were seized legally. If you're going to operate under "international law" you have no end of such incidents—only when the British do it our officials scarcely bat an eye and the incident goes down in the small type, while when the Germans do it, officials issue firm statements and you get box-car headlines.

It is out of that sort of thing that war fever breeds, and it is that kind of thing that the neutrality act, in its shipping sections, seeks to prevent. If you don't have incidents, then you don't have war-sized headlines.

All Depends on Whose Rules are to be Used

And where does "international law" get us with Russia? The Hague convention of 1907 says that a neutral power may allow prizes to enter its ports. But when the United States ratified the convention it refused to accept that provision. What we accept as international law in demanding that Russia surrender the City of Flint to us, may not be international law for those who want to follow the Hague convention.

So if devising neutrality legislation is not a simple thing, neither is "going back to international law."

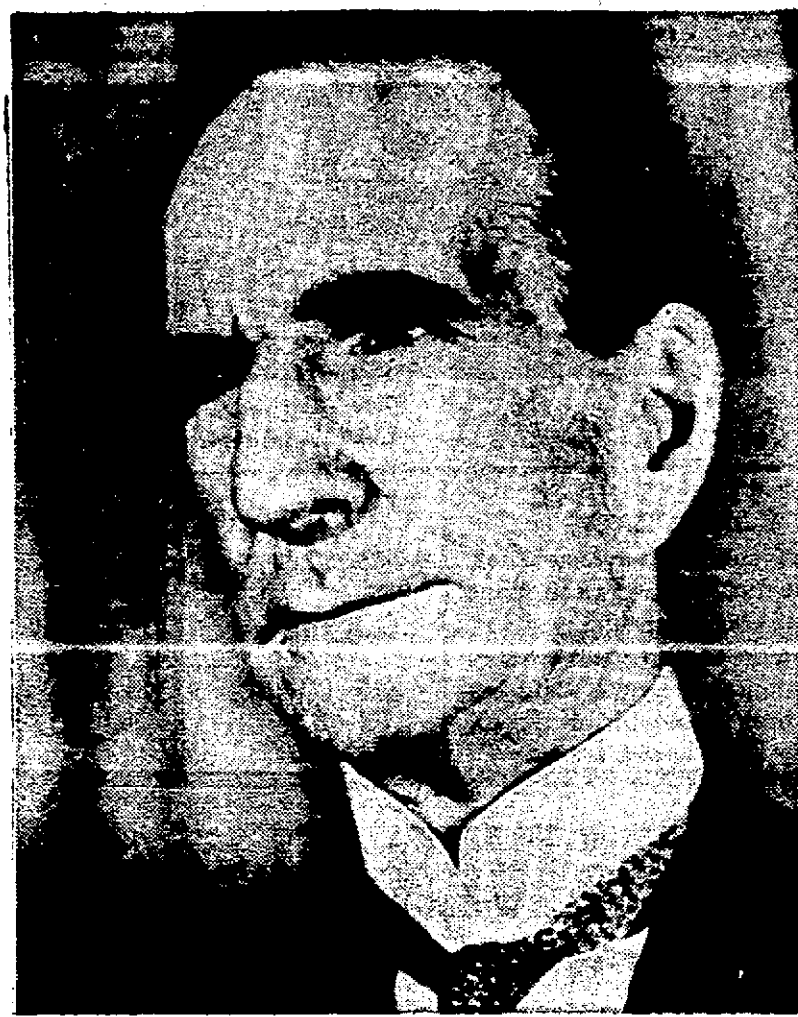

Apparently the City of Flint affair has served the purpose of impressing legislators with the importance of prompt enactment of shipping restrictions. While senators were arguing about the pro-British prayer which Mr. Roosevelt heard at church last Sunday, and while Senator Minton, a graduate of Indiana's "two-per cent clubs," was taking Senator Nye to task for accepting speaking engagements on a fee basis, the statute books stood wide open for such American traffic to belligerent ports as the City of Flint was engaged in. Some time ago Senator Tobey of New Hampshire, recognizing the danger of delay, vainly sought to obtain immediate action to plug up the shipping danger by delaying the arms embargo debate until later. Had congress acted upon his suggestion, the state department would not now be attempting to enforce "international law" on Germany and Russia, and the City of Flint would not be in foreign clutches, under a nazi flag in a Soviet port.

Proper Legislation Can Reduce Risk of Trouble

Not even the most fanatical advocate of neutrality legislation believes that a law can automatically keep us out of war. Much more than a law is necessary. But a law can minimize that risk. In this instance, it would have eliminated the risk completely. And the fewer episodes of this kind we have, the less likely is public opinion to become inflamed.

While the senate has riddled the shipping section considerably, it still gives important protection by preventing American shipping from going into belligerent ports in England and on the continent. If congress, as seems likely, gives the president power to establish combat danger zones and prohibits American ships and citizens from traveling in them, another strong protective device will have been provided.

McGLYNN IN STAGE SHOW CAST

From law to musical comedy, then to the dramatic stage under Charles Frohman's banner, Frank McGlynn, who has been engaged for the role of Mr. Bradley, the high school principal in the roadshow stage production of "What A Life," coming to the Rio theater on Wednesday evening, Nov. 1st, has been a headliner.

McGlynn realized that the training and experience in stock companies would be important for an ambitious actor. He spent several years with various well-known repertory companies and became known as a responsible character and heavy man, in demand for roles that called for dialect and farce characterizations. It was said McGlynn was the first actor to play the part of Arrellsford in "The Confederate Secret Service Man," with the accent of a southern gentleman, creating not only discussion but condemnation of the critics.

3 Wisconsin Artists Painting Murals in New Post Offices

Washington—Three Wisconsin artists were among 48 chosen to paint murals depicting American life in one post office of each state.

They are Don Humphrey, Hartland, and Edmund D. Lewandowski and Charles W. Thwaites, Milwaukee.

Their winning entries were selected from among more than 1,740 small scale drawings of proposed murals submitted to the division of fine arts by artists seeking the 48 awards which carried the total prize money of $38,000. Descriptions of the drawings were not given by the fine arts section.

Humphrey was awarded the contract for a mural in the North St. Paul post office.

Lewandowski will paint the Hamilton, Ill., post office mural. He executed Stoughton, Wis., post office mural.

Thwaites will stay within the borders of his own state, executing a mural in the Chilton post office.

Teachers to Take Legislators To Task at Annual Convention

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Statements reminding the legislature of the purpose of the teachers' retirement fund, "State governmental and legislative leaders should be reminded that through its history the retirement system has promoted better schools," says one proposal to be submitted to the association's 20,000 teacher-members. It adds that "the state has a legal as well as a moral duty to fulfill its obligations in accord with the intent of the law."

Sufficient funds to "maintain their present high standards" will be demanded for the state's public schools of higher learning, and the association's advocacy of a reorganization of Wisconsin rural school districts to insure greater equality of educational opportunity will be reaffirmed in another resolution.

Another will say that "the training and preparatory period of life comes only once and cannot be deferred. We repudiate the philosophy and activities of any group who would slash taxes in such a way that public education will be crippled. Without adequate education the state and nation cannot survive."

"Robot Pamphleteer" Fails German Master

Berne, Switzerland—A Swiss military authorities marveled today at a new German invention—a "robot pamphleteer."

They exhibited a balloon, 10 feet in diameter and equipped with a large clock operating a mechanism designed to drop propaganda pamphlets at hourly intervals. Apparently destined for France the balloon was driven over the Swiss border by adverse winds and found by farmers in a field near Lake Constance.

For some reason, the Swiss said, the mechanism failed to release the packages of pamphlets, still attached to the balloon. The pamphlets contained copies of Adolf Hitler's Oct. 6 reichstag speech—printed in French.

OPENING SALE

In Their New Store at

"Formerly Killoren's Appliance Store"
229 West College Ave., Appleton

"Just a Song at Twilight"

Just arrived — a special shipment of smart new console pianos and grands, on which for a limited time, we offer savings of as much as $75.00, every piano fully guaranteed, regardless of the price you pay. You will find these pianos brilliant examples of modern piano styling, richly cased in choice woods. These pianos will delight you musically and decoratively and bring refreshing smartness and beauty to your home.

Happy family — whose hearts will ever be united and gladdened with memories of songs they have shared around their piano.

Even the smallest children are eager to learn. If they are given the opportunity, they can enrich your life with many precious moments of music. For many generations the piano has been the leading musical instrument.

There are many residents of Appleton and the Fox River Valley who have had dealings with the Wilson Music Co. To them, the name Wilson Music is the name of a friend. It is our sincerest wish that through our new store (formerly Killoren Electric Co.'s appliance store) we may have the privilege of serving the musical needs of every home in Appleton so that they, too, may learn first hand the friendly, competent and complete musical service that we render.

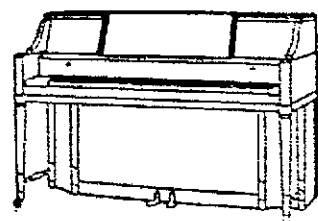

Realizing that there are many parents with small children who would be anxious to purchase a piano if they could be assured that their children would be interested in music, we wish to offer them our rent sale plan. We will place a new piano in your home. You can pay a small monthly rent for six months or a year and if at the end of that time you desire to purchase the piano or any other new piano, the entire amount of the rent will be applied on the agreed purchase price. In case you do not wish to continue, the piano can be returned at no additional charge to you. This offer is not limited to the style or make of piano you choose, either grands or uprights are available. Just come into our store and pick out a piano, delivery can be made at once.

The spinet pianos that we are offering at only $179.50 are not simply large uprights cut down to size. They incorporate a basic feature designed expressly to give a gloriously rich, resonant, colorful tone, adequate in power and volume for any room. They have tonal power and beauty far beyond their size, full 88 note, standard height keyboard. They are scarcely higher than a living room table and occupy less floor space than a 2' x 3' rug.

APPLETON, WISCONSIN, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1939

Chaffin Chapter

By Gordon H. McIntyre

IT SEEMS that "Sonny" Filz, who cavorted for Appleton High school football teams for a couple seasons, and his young brother, a sixth grader who aspires to follow in "Sonny's" footsteps, have stirred up something. And before we go much further, we'd like to say that we're for them.

The younger Filz, in his desire to be a football player, pestered "Sonny" so long that in self defense the latter went out and watched the kid brother, and a flock of other boys from the neighborhood, play football one afternoon on the Roosevelt school grounds. "Sonny" offered a suggestion here and there to the brother and then to the other kids and pretty soon he found himself interested and with a flock of youngsters in tow.

Interest in football is so great in the vicinity of the school that "Sonny" is like the old woman who lived in a shoe and had so many children. Not only that, but the public school kids have deserted the intra-mural program of Roosevelt school and thereby all but wrecked it. They won't play touch football when the real stuff is being taught in another corner of the lot. Also, the 11-man teams are so numerous they all but drive the touch footballers off the grounds.

And that brings us to the question of organized instruction for the kids.

Recently we looked through and studied parts of a report prepared by school authorities in 1936 on the question of Football in the Junior and Senior High School. The first thing that struck us was that the information compiled was for the purpose of showing that football should be a part of the junior high school program, the fact that it might have some good was entirely ignored. The second thing is that in 1939 the report is antiquated and a new survey of the problem might well be undertaken. Several of the articles cited as expert testimony were from 1934.

Obviously we can't attempt to take apart all the items cited by the

Ripon Yearling Cheerleader Gets Spelling Lesson

Ripon—(U)—A freshman cheerleader taking compulsory spelling lessons this week in preparation for Saturday's Ripon college homecoming football game with Monmouth.

The young man's tutors are several squads of grim-faced sophomores, armed with paddles. Working in shifts throughout each day, they are making sure the luckless frosh doesn't repeat his error when the stands are packed with old grads.

Accorded the privilege of leading a Ripon cheer in the Beloit college stadium last Friday night, the freshman suffered a tragic loss of memory—he forgot how to spell Ripon.

He experimented with several combinations, finally picked one that sounded logical and led a "big locomotive for R-I-P-O-N-I-N."

Stuhldreher Is Happy After U. W. Drill Wednesday

Stop Frosh Passes, Rush All Over Passer; Schmitz in Uniform

MADISON—(U)—Coach Harry Stuhldreher was happy over the performance of his University of Wisconsin football team yesterday.

The Badgers, preparing for their third Big Ten game against Iowa here Saturday, were given a blocking and defensive scrimmage and looked very good.

Especially pleasing was their work on defense. They stopped freshmen, using Hawkeye pass and running plays, for little gain. Many times the passer was smashed to the ground before he could fire his aerial.

Don Peterson, sophomore quarterback, was at that spot in the first string lineup and John Loehrke, a senior, was at right end. However, Stuhldreher made it clear that the changes had no bearing on the starting eleven. He explained he made the moves to acclimate the men to play on the first team.

Bob Holloway, guard, remained in the student infirmary. Attendants there said he had fully recovered from his leg infection but was kept hospitalized because of the damp weather.

Bill Schmitz, left halfback, was in uniform but saw no contact action. He will be ready for the Hawks. Bob Peterson was at the starting left half spot and Bob Cone held down the second string berth.

Much of the afternoon was spent building a defense for Nile Kinnick, left half on Coach Eddie Anderson's Iowa eleven. He has been the sparkplug of the Iowa team and the Badger defensive power will be pointed in his direction.

Kinnick, against Indiana, carried the ball 19 times for 103 yards. He completed four passes for 106 yards and scored 19 points. The Hawks had two weeks of rest before Saturday's game and were in the best physical condition of the year.

Giants to Install Lights for 1940

Yankee Stadium Now Only New York Plant Without the Arcs

NEW YORK—(U)—Despite the long-standing objections of Manager Bill Terry, the New York Giants have decided to install bang-up lighting system in the Polo Grounds and play a full quota of night games next summer, both at home and on the road.

The Giants thus become the last of the big league clubs to haul down their sunlit banner and succumb to the financial lure of the arcs. Up to now Terry stubbornly has refused to expose his athletes to the night air, but he evidently has been overruled at last. An official announcement will be made in about a week.

This will leave Yankee stadium alone of the three local ball plants without a lighting system. Brooklyn made a mint of money with its night games at Ebbets field the past season. The Yanks are willing to play a few night games away from home, but President Ed Barrow is dead set against installing lights—"at least for 1940."

Terry, who has said he never would play under lights, will have to shade his eyes and like it, a martyr to the desire of the stockholders to make money. He will remain field manager of the team, not yet having convinced his employers he would be more valuable sitting at a desk directing the Giants' farm properties.

Beloit College Works To Tumble Knox Eleven

Beloit—(U)—The Beloit college football team will go into Saturday's game with Knox with a three-fold purpose—to get back into winning stride, make the old grads' homecoming perfect, and tumble Knox from the Midwest conference leadership.

Beloit got away to a good start, defeating Simpson and the University of Chicago at Chicago, but then lost to Carleton and Cornell at Iowa. The Gold held Ripon to a scoreless tie last week.

With the exception of Bruno Virgili, senior quarterback who suffered a knee injury in the Carleton game, Beloit will be in good shape for the homecoming tilt. Virgili probably will not be ready for duty until the Grinnell game Nov. 4.

The Knox came ends Beloit's home stand. The team closes its

Columbus Fans Finally Taking Interest in Buckeye Gridders

COLUMBUS, O.—(U)—This football-delirious city is warming up to "our boys"—those surviving Bucks of Ohio State.

Ohio had to win two starters and beat Minnesota before the broad and high quarterbacks—perhaps one of the best known second-guessing groups in gridiron fandom—got help to the idea that the Bucks were more than a flash-in-the-pan eleven.

Before the season started the fans were down right chilly. Two of the first three games would be lost and Ohio would be lucky to win three games all season, predicted the downtown coaches as they talked of a new coach.

There was still a lot of finger-crossing as Ohio prepared to face

MacPhail Comes Through With New Suggestion and Draws Usual Chorus of Jeers

NEW YORK—(U)—Started out of a sound off-season slumber by the alarm of Brooklyn's early rising Leland Stanford MacPhail, who wants to supplement the world series with games between the other clubs, most of the major league magnates are cautious.

Some of them have been burned before by their own criticism of the red-head's red hot schemes—such as night baseball—but were willing to give his latest brainchild a hearing.

This is what MacPhail said he intended to have anyway at the annual meetings at Cincinnati in December, when he will propose that that first place clubs play each other, as now, and the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth place teams also meet.

Inter-league competition should not be confined to two clubs. A series of inter-league games in which all clubs participate would fairly determine the question of supremacy each season," argued MacPhail.

"MacPhail Is Nuts" The first reaction of a lot of persons was probably voiced most succinctly by Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, who snapped:

"Just say for me that MacPhail is nuts. Somebody proposed this a long time ago and it was just as silly then as it is now."

But for the most part calmer spirits prevailed.

William E. Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, declared, "theoretically I'm inclined to favor MacPhail's idea, because of my belief that the National League is every bit as strong as the American with the exception of the Yankees."

"However, I don't feel the plan is practical. One objection is that such a plan would tend to take away interest in the big series."

Alva Bradley of the Cleveland Indians, recalling that his suggestion last year of a series of inter-league games in mid-season "didn't get much response," said he would be ready to give MacPhail's idea consideration if it were brought up, "but I wouldn't want to take a position on it right now."

Old Connie Mack, who has seen a lot of novelties come and go, dissented loudly:

"Would Be Failure" "To my way of thinking it would be a real failure. There would be no real rivalry. I don't believe any of our clubs in the second division, or even those in the lower part of the upper, would draw enough to make it worthwhile, financially, to play the games."

"I don't think we have to worry about which is the best league or the best team. We'll always have an outstanding team. The Yankees will be beaten in time, I think almost any of us could do it—if we just cut it into our heads we really wanted to."

Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals asserted, "the world series is a great event and I wouldn't want to see anything introduced which would detract its interest from it."

Harry Grabner, vice president of the Chicago White Sox, observed, "personally, it is too radical to comment on immediately."

Charles (Boots) Weber, vice president of the Cubs, added, "he may have something, but I wouldn't want to give a snap answer."

Cubs Sox Played The Chicago clubs, it might be pointed out, play each other annually and this year's series would have fulfilled MacPhail's meeting of the fourth place clubs—with the American league winning again.

Both William Harridge and Ford Frick, presidents of the American and National leagues, said they would let the club owners do the considering.

And this year's world series rivals? Warren Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, said, "I want to think about it a while before I comment."

Ed Barrow, president of the Yankees observed: "I don't want to comment. But this same proposal was made 30 or 40 years ago by August Herrmann, president of the Reds, and laughed away."

Undefeated Redskins are Favored Over The Packers

MILWAUKEE—Presenting a lineup studded with all-stars, the undefeated Washington Redskins will rule slight favorites when they take the field here Sunday afternoon to battle the Green Bay Packers at State Fair Park. The kickoff is scheduled at 2 p. m. sharp.

This inter-sectional fray is the "top" attraction in the National Football league this weekend and the game is expected to draw the largest crowd in Milwaukee gridiron history. The State Fair park management is putting in some extra chair seats to help handle the last minute overflow.

The Redskins, with Coach Red Fisher at the helm, have defeated Pittsburgh twice, Brooklyn and Philadelphia and played a tie game in the mud with the New York Giants. The Packers have bumped off the Cardinals two in a row and scored single wins over the Bears and Detroit. Cleveland whittled the Bays in the most startling upset of the Pro loop race to date.

Washington has a wealth of backfield luminaries headed by the "One and Only" Sammy Baugh, who is slated to see considerable action against the Packers after being on the sidelines with a leg injury for three weeks. In Dick Todd, Texas A. and M., and Jimmy German, the Senators have a couple of freshmen backs who have been burning up the league.

Farkas and Filchock

Andy Farkas and Frank Filchock, Detroit and Indiana respectively, are going great guns in their second year of pro ball and their backfield abilities rank with the best. Then again there is Ernie Pinckert of Southern California with seven years of cash-and-carry ball under his belt but still one of the greatest blockers in the game.

In Wayne Miller, Notre Dame; Charlie Malone, Texas A. and M.; Bob McChesney, U.C.L.A. and Robby Masterson, Miami, the Redskins claim the best quartet of ends in the National league.

A 270-pounder, from Washington State, is one of the starting tackles. He is a seven-year veteran. Bo Russell of Auburn, a 1939 recruit, teams up with Edwards at the other tackle and press notices have been most flowery about him all season.

Middle of Line Strong Washington is well fixed at the guard and center posts with Micky Parks, Oklahoma, and Bud Emmons, Washington State, headlining the snapper backs and Dick Farman, Washington State; Jim Karcher, Ohio State, and Bubbles Young of Oklahoma doing a lot of business at the guards.

Have been all Manawa needed to come out on top. Homecoming festivities will get underway Thursday evening with a parade and pep meeting at 7:30 o'clock. The parade will consist of floats entered by various school organizations and classes and will be headed by the high school band. Its line of march will include the business district and the main streets in the village.

A homecoming dance in the gymnasium will conclude the celebration Friday evening following the football game.

Shunts Players Back and Forth as He Prepares for Carroll

BUESING RETURNS

Halfback Doesn't Do Much but Says He'll Be Ready Saturday

SHAKING up his squad because of what he felt was some rather unskillful play against the Monmouth Scots last Saturday, Coach Bernie Hesselton of Lawrence college football team has been using more sophomores in the week's workouts and indications are he'll start them at Waukesha Saturday against Carroll.

The rapidly with which the changes have been made has left Carroll bewildered. The minute a player has indicated a letup or missed an assignment he has been shunted to the sidelines and someone else brought into the fray. The Vike mentor definitely has been driving his charges this week and despite the fact he says he'd rather point for the two home games against Ripon and Beloit, there's no indication he isn't going after Carroll.

Bernie would just as soon beat Carroll at Waukesha as win the two games at home, despite his remarks to the contrary. There are many Milwaukee boys on the Carroll squad and a lot of Carroll people among Bernie's friends and acquaintances in Milwaukee. He's taken a lot from them since last season and he admits he doesn't take it gracefully. So he probably is pointing for a win and an opportunity to dish it out for a change.

Last night's drill saw Ken Buesing rejoin the team but he didn't do much. He feels certain, however, that he'll be ready for Saturday. Bob Everett definitely is lost for a couple weeks and Frank Hammer is showing in his position.

Bob McIntosh has been working at center with Dick Garvey on the other squad and which will start appears to be a question. The ends have been shifted a half dozen times indicating Hesselton isn't satisfied with their efforts.

Last night's drill saw Assistant Coach Ade Dillon again offered as piece de resistance and he took a pounding as Hesselton stood on the other side of the line and drove the varsity to "smack 'em". However, there were times when the line coach showed considerable ability at driving through holes that his squad opened for him.

Athletics, Montreal In Working Agreement

Toronto (AP)—Toronto baseball club officials announced that Connie Mack, owner and manager of the Philadelphia Athletics in the American league, had advised them that the proposed working agreement between the Athletics and the local International league club had been sanctioned by Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball's high commissioner.

At the same time Mack announced he was sending two players to Toronto. They are Jim Reninger and Eric Tipton the latter an outfielder who joined the Athletics from Duke University last spring. Tipton will be here on option while Reninger, who won seven and lost seven at Baltimore last season will come outright to the Leafs.

HARRIERS TO RUN
Beloit (AP)—The Midwest conference cross-country race will be run here Saturday between halves of the Knox-Beloit college football game. Twenty-five runners, representing Beloit, Monmouth, Carleton, Cornell, Knox, and Grinnell, will participate. Grinnell won last year's race.

U. VanderVelden kegled 221 for the losers.

The Third Game
Schlafers Supplies gained a 2-game edge over Woolen Mills when the third game ended in a tie and the Supplies won in a roll-off. Harold Krueger banged a 243 game and Clarence Below zipped a 570 series with a 205 single for the victors. Ray Crane cracked 549 with a 202 game. E. Herb and L. Barlament each bagged 200 games for the losing quint.

Atlas Embossers put down the high-powered Mellow Brews in two games. Orson Kranzsch topped the winners with a 198 game and 501 series while W. Greens cracked a 224 game and 563 series and B. Loesselyoung topped a 222 for the losers.

Pond Sports lost a toe-hold in the circuit lead by winning only two games from Wire Works. Schade paced the Pond quint with his big game and a 631 series. R. Kunitz battered 231 and M. Seims rolled 202. Tops for the losers was William Lesselyoung with a 196 game and 551 triple.

Al's Bar, the league "jockeys," were riding Mike Sakallaris pretty hard and his Power Company team lost two games. Roy Dagneau paced the winners with a 233 game and 534 series while Clem Antonetti whipped 222 for a 605 series and I. Boettcher counted 210 for the losers.

Power Co. "Washers" outdid their big brothers when they downed Post Office in two games. Al Stillman hit 210 and 548 and Everett Hockings slammed 230 to lead the attack. George Grimmer put together two games of 201 for a 579 series. W. Horn kegled 208 and 207 and W. Grimmer had 206 for the losers.

VETERAN END

One of the linemen to watch when Appleton High school grid-ders are on the field is Tom Reider, veteran end, above. He runs plays wide or knifes in to break up interference and does a great job of ten getting tackles under trying conditions. On offense he can catch passes with the best and occasionally this year he has been brought in to the backfield to toss passes. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Reider, Jr., 202 S. Story street. St. John Preparing For Menasha St. Mary's Little Chute—St. John high gridders trek to Menasha Sunday afternoon to meet St. Mary's Zephyrs in a Catholic conference game. According to past performance, the Dutchmen are the underdogs. Edgewood defeated the Zephyrs 7 to 6 while the Madison team defeated St. John 31 to 12. On the other hand, St. John was the only team to score over 10 points on Edgewood.

St. John suffered another casualty when Whitey Verstegen had his nose broken at Berlin last Friday night when he recovered a fumble. He is expected to play in Sunday's game and will be equipped with a special nose guard. Joe De Groot cracked a collarbone this week in scrimmage and Gene Weyenberg has an infected foot. They will be out of uniform.

Menasha St. Mary's also has a couple of injured on the sidelines with Bill Resch, star back out with an injured hip, and Coopman a badly wrenched ankle.

St. John has three games left on its schedule including Sunday's game. St. Norbert Squires invade the local park on Nov. 5 in a homecoming game and then St. John goes to Keshena to meet St. Joseph high.

Harmon to Get All-American Test Against Yale "11"

Will be Unanimous Choice if He Performs As Michigan Hopes

BY EARL HILLIGAN
MICHIGAN (AP)—The all-American possibilities of Tom Harmon, a top ranking gridiron glamor boy of this football season will go squarely on the spot next Saturday afternoon.

Before a crowd which may go as high as 70,000 persons, Michigan will entertain Yale at Ann Arbor with Harmon the young man most of the customers will be watching. This triple-threat Wolverine ace thus far has done everything required of a great star. He's scored 52 points in three games, making seven touchdowns, seven points after touchdowns, one field goal and passing Michigan to numerous additional points.

But he has turned in that remarkable performance against three comparatively weak eleven—Michigan State, Iowa and Chicago—and his big test will come Saturday in an important intersectional battle and against a team with two star backs of its own.

In Fred Burr and Hovey Seymour the invaders will present a pair of offensive stars who may dim Harmon's brilliance.

Should Harmon have a great afternoon against Yale—comparable to his scoring all 27 points in Michigan's win over Iowa—he might claim recognition as the finest half-back in the land.

Coach Fritz Crisler warned the Wolverines yesterday that "Yale will keep pitching passes at one spot, usually short over-the-line heaves, as a build up for a long shot." A long drill on pass defense followed.

Badgers Work on Aerials
Iowa and Wisconsin, which meets Saturday at Madison, also worked out against aerials. Illinois appeared impressive in stopping Northwestern plays and also clicked on offense. Injuries will keep two Northwestern regulars—Halbeck, Red Hahnstein and guard Don Guritz—out of play against Illinois at Evanston Saturday. Both have foot ailments.

Rain hampered Ohio State's drills for Cornell. En route to San Francisco where his team will oppose Santa Clara, Mal Elward, Purdue coach, took time out at Omaha, Neb., to disapprove of several referee's decisions this year.

Minnesota, one of three conference teams with open dates Saturday, worked almost exclusively on pass defense and particularly against the play by which Ohio State scored its three touchdowns last week. Coach Bo McMillan calling the Ohio backfield "man for man probably the greatest in the country," directed Indiana through defensive formations for its game with the Buckeyes Nov. 4. Chicago had a long scrimmage. Rain sent Norte Dame into the fieldhouse for its drill.

LOOKING AHEAD
Denver (AP)—Denver university and Iowa State authorities must hit it off all right. New contracts will insure Iowa State's playing here as Denver's opening grid opponent every season through 1942.

Washington Works on Offense for Packers

Milwaukee—(AP)—A practice session stressing offensive tactics was scheduled by Coach Red Flaherty today for his Washington Redskins, preparing here for a game Sunday against the Green Bay Packers of the National Professional Football League.

Flaherty sent the Redskins through a lengthy dummy drill yesterday in an effort to set up a defense against Packer plays as reported by Washington scouts.

One of the chief worries of the easterners was how to stop the Arnie Herber to Don Hutson passing combination that aided Green Bay to a victory over the Detroit Lions last week and a tie with Detroit for the western division lead.

Report Jewel Ens Will Be Cincinnati Coach

St. Louis—(AP)—The Post-Dispatch said today Jewel Ens is to go to the Cincinnati Reds as coach, succeeding Jimmy Wilson, who is to be made manager of Indianapolis of the American association.

Ens recently was released by the Pittsburgh Pirates after having been with the team for the greater part of 25 years as player, manager and coach. Manager Bill McKechie of the Reds formerly managed the Pirates.

Ens, who lives in St. Louis, declined to verify the report that he is to take the Cincinnati job, but friends of his said that the arrangement had been made.

Marquette Holds Hour's Scrimmage

Will Taper Off Today and Tomorrow for Arizona Battle

Milwaukee—(AP)—A gradual tapering off in practice sessions for the remainder of the week was in prospect for the Marquette University football team today after Coach Paddy Driscoll sent the gridders through a strenuous one-hour scrimmage session yesterday.

Marquette's running attack showed definite signs of improvement as Driscoll worked to have the team at its offensive peak for Saturday's homecoming game here against the University of Arizona.

Some of the backs, however, displayed confusion in "cutting" on the plays and more than one failed to hit holes the line had opened up. A large portion of the drill was devoted to a scrimmage between the second team and the freshman squad the reserves showing difficulty in mastering assignments and in presenting a concerted offense.

Drills today and tomorrow will include dummy defensive scrimmage against Arizona plays.

Hollywood—Driving past Dolores Del Rio's palatial home, I can't help wondering why any woman so situated should eat her heart out, looking for a screen comeback.

Don't misunderstand me—being a confirmed Del Rio fan, I do enjoy seeing her a great star again. Furthermore, I think producers are displaying unusual stupidity by overlooking her many assets, which include a tremendous following in Latin America. The thing that puzzles me is why SHE wants to get back into Hollywood harness.

If it were possible for a thoroughly level-headed player (which she certainly is) to feel any great sense of achievement through screen success, it would be understandable. But that's ruled out by the fixed nature of movie work—fragmentary scenes played haphazardly under the absolute dictatorship of a director and an associate producer. Time

Stopped in on the set where Director Bill Keighley is directing "The Fighting Sixty-ninth" and picked up a funny story at his expense. Seems Keighley, who's a stickler for authentic detail, flew back to New York

Try to Keep Response at 1 Level in Suit

"With North-South using the Blackwood slam convention, the bidding proceeded as follows:

North East South West
1 heart Pass 1 spade Pass
2 spades Pass 4 clubs Pass
4 no trump Pass 5 spades Pass
5 spades Pass Pass Pass

"West opened the club king, then shifted to a diamond, so we were down before we got our breaths. "I held the North hand and I believe my strong bidding was justified. I contend that South should have bid one no trump on the first round or should have bid three no trump on the second round. I then would have been satisfied with a game, either in hearts or in spades. South would have bid the same on the first two rounds with the following holding and, if he had held these cards, a small slam would have been almost a certainty:

"My partner says that you recommend weak one-over-one take-outs as he made on this hand, I don't believe it. N. F., Chicago."

Believe it or not, I do heartily recommend weak one-over-one take-outs rather than unwieldy one no trump take-outs. Hence it goes without saying that I approve South's one spade response to one heart. My own experience, and that of every expert of my acquaintance, has proved to my complete satisfaction that the bidding develops better and is easier and safer to handle when the first response can be in a suit at the one level, rather than at no trump. As long as partners do not insist on attaching arbitrary valuations to a suit response as long as they realize that such response may be very weak and make allowances, there is no trouble. Any difficulties that arise usually spring from wish-fulfillment on the part of the opening bidder. Having opened with a hand as good as North's, and having received a "favorable" response, his yearning for a slam is so great that it blinds him to all other factors.

I do not agree for a moment that South's bidding would have been the same if he had held the hypothetical hand given. Of course, he would have first responded with one spade, but then, when partner jumped to three spades, he would not merely bid four; he would take the occasion to make an obvious ace-showing bid by bidding four diamonds, thus mildly suggesting a slam.

The fault in this hand was entirely North's for raising on the second round to three spades instead of making the proper raise to four spades. North should have realized that he could not afford to bid first three, then five. He should have done his slam investigating without passing the game level! Had he made this very strong bid (from one to four spades) South would not have been "barred." If he had substantially more (such as an ace) than he needed for his first one-over-one response, he would indicate that fact.

My Neighbor Says—

House plants do not thrive in a room that is too warm. Keep temperature at 60 or 65 degrees and place plants in a window where they will get sunlight.

Add lemon juice to peeled peaches, bananas or other fruits which are apt to turn brown before they are mixed into fruit salad.

Beef should be quickly seared and roasted. Pork must be cooked slowly and much longer than beef. Slow cooking destroys the flavor of beef, but adds to the flavor of pork.

If there is a water front in a kitchen range the fire should never be allowed to go out on a very cold night. If it is allowed to go out the water in the water front may freeze and cause trouble when the fire is rebuilt.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

LYNN BARI gets great delight and relaxation from a fast game of ping-pong—which is an excellent means of pepping up a sluggish body.

Would any woman be satisfied with a frock that was too long in front and too short in back, tight in the wrong places and loose where it should be tight, if she could have a perfectly contoured gown from a famous designer?

Certainly not! Yet when it comes to figure conditioning many women seem satisfied if the scales tell them they are of normal weight or below normal weight whether or not their figures are attractively proportioned.

Any one can lose weight through frequent dieting; starving off pounds and leaving skin loose in parts where too many pounds disappeared. Women who so reduce can call themselves slim, that is true, but they are quite lacking in figure glamour! They are pound wise and inch foolish, so to speak. They forget that figure appeal is attained not so much by dropping off pounds as by properly redistributing existing weight. Frequently a woman above the normal weight can be most attractive if her figure is well proportioned and her muscles firm and her skin healthy looking.

Tape Measure, vs. the Scales
Women must learn that the tape measure is a truer means of determining figure perfection than the scales.

A director of a slenderizing salon, Monty Macleay, states the case this way, "Figure-consciousness is really more fundamental than clothes-consciousness, for an unattractive figure is more of a problem than an ill-fitting dress. A woman can put an unbecoming dress aside, or give it away, but she cannot hang her

Limbering Movements First
You should begin with limbering movements and when your body becomes supple, you may concentrate on the specific areas which need correction. Your upper arms may be too fleshy, your hips too rounded. If this is the case you may devote five minutes a day on exercises which are designed to correct these figure faults, but you must limber your body first.

I believe so strongly in corrective exercises for creating health as well as beauty of figure and face, that I cannot urge girls and women too strongly to get busy and adopt specific exercise programs and to be loyal to them. So much pleasure is within our grasp if we are physically and mentally fit that it seems worthwhile to devote some time each day or week to perfecting our bodies. Am I not right?

Write your figure problems to me and I shall suggest a program. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Here is a professional man who has enjoyed a 4-year kindergarten post because his democratic son refused to submit to a domestic dictator. Glen and his mother should ignore the old man as they would a child, for this behavior is not only childish but un-American. This nation assumes that men and women can choose their own careers and sweethearts. We regard dictating parents as European.

CASE O-182: Glen R., aged 23, is the son of a prominent lawyer. "His father persuaded him to study for a legal career," his fiancée began.

"Glen spent two years taking pre-legal subjects, but he decided he didn't like law well enough to make it his profession, so he switched to medicine without asking his father's advice."

"Ever since then, his father has refused to speak to Glen, and except for his mother's secret gifts of money, Glen has had to earn his entire way."

"He worked at night driving a taxicab and later washed dishes at a restaurant to earn his board. The last two years in medical school he served as an extern at one of the hospitals, thereby making his room and board. He finally sold a pint of his blood to pay for his diploma."

"It has been a long, hard pull but he graduated and now has started his internship. But still his father acts like a stubborn child. Glen and I went to visit his parents last month, but the father wouldn't even eat at the table with us.

"Dr. Crane, Glen is proud, and never has asked his father for a penny, but I know it hurts him to be ignored in this manner. Why will an otherwise intelligent man be so childish, just because he cannot have his own way in being the autocrat of his children's lives?"

DIAGNOSIS:
Maybe some of you readers think this case sounds like the melodramas of several generations ago, but I still receive scores of patients as well as hundreds of letters from young people in this identical situation.

Why will egotistical parents try to make their children conform to their own selfish ideas? Why do they try to coerce or club their sons fully, give them a father's guidance; whereas the stepmother wrecks her petty spite and jealousy upon her husband's children.

I believe that this state of affairs is far away from being the truth and that there are more good stepmothers than there are good stepfathers. I believe that men often resent their wives' children by their former husbands' children by former wives. At any rate, so many letters come to this column from women whose husbands are mistreating their children and who turn to pieces between their two loves that I have come to believe that it is a very hazardous thing for a woman with children to marry a second time.

Of course, a number of explanations may be given for the stepfather's attitude toward the unwelcome brood his bride brings along with her as her dowry. One is the financial angle. What with adenoids and tonsils and an education and clothes and food and shelter, children are an expensive luxury, and it takes a man with a generous soul to see all that he makes going to support another man's children.

But the principal reason that stepfathers hate their stepchildren is just pure old fashioned jealousy. They can't bear to see their wives lavishing the time and attention and affection and education that they think they should monopolize. A man likes to see his wife with his child in her arms, but he grinds his teeth with rage when it is her little Bobby instead of his.

Now as to your concrete problem, I do not think that there is any question of duty in it. It is all a matter of your preference, and you should do whatever will make you the happiest. Your boy is 17. He is a man. No matter how kind a father he had, you would soon be losing him because he will be going off to school and after that into some business or profession and he would be gone from you. That is what happens to every mother and what she must prepare herself to meet. But while you will lose your boy when he goes about the business of life for himself, you will still keep him through the deep love that exists between you.

On the other hand, you will have your husband for many years, and if you are big enough to forgive him for the way he has treated your son, you may yet have many happy years together. I would counsel you under the circumstances to try to realize that jealousy is a madness that makes people not only do unkind things to others, but things that torture themselves. You might pity your husband, seeing that he has done himself a greater wrong than he has done either your boy or yourself—for he has lost you.

Fear of Soap May Make Child Difficult at Bathing Time

BY ANGELO PATRI

Fear of the soap makes some children a trial at bathing time. At some time in the history of the bathing-time soap got into the child's eyes, or his mouth and nose. Maybe it burned. It might have if it were a harsh soap. That gave the child a bad memory of soap and water and started a chain of trouble so that any mention of it brings on a tantrum.

Like all other childish experiences, the first one was the important one. When he got the soap in his eye, or in his mouth, if his mother calmly, without excitement, took clear water and a clean rag and washed out the soap, making light of it, saying, "There you are; your eye got an extra wash that time, didn't it?" and going on from there, discouraging any more to do about it, the accident will not make so deep an impression.

If the child roars and splashes about and makes a great scene he should be checked at once, taken out of the tub, stood on the mat, have his eye, or his mouth rinsed with clean, tepid water, and told that there was no need for such exhibitions. Silent disapprobation of such a demonstration over such a trifle, will help, too.

Of course, one should take every precaution to guard against such happenings. The soap used ought to be the purest and mildest obtainable, kept especially for the child's bath. And the greatest care should be taken to keep the suds out of the child's eyes and ears, nose and mouth. We don't want to make bathing unpleasant. But neither do we want to make a child fussy and temperamental. When he does get a drop of suds in an awkward place he is to take it cheerfully, have it wiped out and forget it.

One little girl was having her hair shampooed in a beauty parlor. The woman who was doing it handed the child's head as though it were a wad of rubber. She watered and soaped and rubbed until there was a pile of what suds on the child's head. The soapy water trickled down her neck, into her ears, and of course, found its way into her tightly shut eyes. She began to cry and the lady ran to her mouth. Her mother was ashamed of her behavior and scolded her roundly, and the attendant took on an air of injured virtue and rubbed and rolled the child's head the harder.

"She's just something terrible

Mother, Child, Second Husband Make Difficult Human Triangle

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—Three years ago I married a fine man with whom I was, and still am, deeply in love. I have a son 17 years old by a former marriage. I told my husband-to-be that unless he was sure that he would welcome my boy and be a friend to him we must postpone our marriage until my boy had grown, but he assured me that he and the lad would be real pals, and my son looked forward happily to having a father. However, as soon as we were married my husband, who loves all children except mine, turned against my boy, who did everything to please him. He made things so unpleasant for the boy that he had to leave home and go to live with an aunt. But he grieves for me and it breaks my heart to be parted from him. Worry over this trouble has wrecked my health so that I am afraid that my mind is becoming affected. I am no longer concerned with my personal happiness, for that is gone, but I do so want to do the right thing by both my husband and my son. Please tell me which is greater—my duty to my son or my husband? CONFUSED.

DOROTHY DIX

Answer:
The angles in the human triangle are never so acute as they are when the three parties concerned are a mother, her child and her second husband. Compared with that tragedy that of the "other woman" or "other man" is negligible. For no woman can suffer as she can be made to suffer through her child. No man can be so tortured with jealousy of any lover as he can be of his wife's child who is not his. And no child's life can be so embittered and warped as it can be by the unkind treatment of a stepfather.

It is a curious thing that although the stepmother has been the villain in innumerable stories of cruelty to children, very little has ever been said about the stepfather. Apparently it has been taken for granted that he accepts his wife's children as his own, provides for them cheerfully, and daughters into abject submission?

Kindergarten for Middle-Aged Babies
I have previously told you that the greatest cause of human misery is probably emotional immaturity. People may be highly respected professional men in the community.

They may be 50 years of age, with distinguished appearance and university degrees, yet still be as selfish as grandstanding as kindergarten babies. I sometimes wish I could conduct a kindergarten for middle-aged babies, say from 45 to 55 years old, for we certainly need such an educational clinic in every town and city.

Glen is certainly an outstanding man to have struggled through to his medical degree, working day and night to support himself and still make his grades. It takes a superman to stand that strain for four years. His father should be proud of him, and is, but will not admit it.

If his father were an ignorant man who had immigrated to America from the Old Country, we might charge the latter's dictatorial ideas to the conventional viewpoint of European males, who used to feel that the male parent should be a Kaiser.

You readers have often seen spoiled children grandstanding on the family stage, trying to gain the spotlight.

Well, here is a beautiful twin for such a youngster. This domestic dictator wanted his every whim to be law. He ordered his son to follow in his footsteps and become a lawyer, probably to flatter his own selfish vanity by forming a partnership with the "A Son" on the shingle.

When his wishes were crossed, he pouted and would not play. Like the boy who takes his football and goes home because he can't be captain, so this male parent has maintained a 4-year post, and delights in knowing his wife and son are disturbed. Therefore, they should not flatter his vanity further by showing they are disturbed. They should enjoy life and ignore him.

other men. Now they are going to take one of the girls who works in the same office as a passenger, and I have refused to let him go in the car any more. He feels very much hurt about it and says I don't trust him, but I feel that if he gets in with other women he is liable to start running around. Do you think I should let him ride with them or not?

Answer:
If your husband has the spirit of a mouse, he should tell you just exactly where you get off when you start bossing him and telling him whether he can ride in a jitney or not. This man's car is not a pleasure vehicle and they are not going off on joyrides in it. It is a convenient means of getting down to work, and the people who ride in it are conducting a petting party. They are using it merely as a means of transportation as they would a street car or a bus, and there is no significance whatever to be attached to those who make up the little party.

Anyway, child, can't you see how silly you are being about the whole matter? Your husband works in the office not only with this girl but with many other girls. If he wants to flirt, he has all the opportunity in the world. And how do you figure out that you are going to watch him and prevent him from speaking to a female in the course of his business and when he is many miles away from you?

Get it out of your head, once and for all, that you can keep your husband faithful to you by watching him. Somewhere the espionage system always breaks down because you can't dog a man's footsteps every hour of the day. In the end you have to trust him. You have to believe that he loves you, that he is loyal and faithful and honest. The way to keep a husband from philandering is not by watching him and forbidding him to speak to other women. It is by making yourself so charming and agreeable that other women do not attract him.

TEA AND TACT
Dear Mrs. Post: What would you do in this case? My house is beautifully and rather fragly furnished. A few days ago, I asked several friends to come to tea. Everything was very nice and informal—maybe too informal—because one of the ladies sat there with her foot under her on the sofa. I was very much annoyed and wanted to ask her to take it down but didn't for fear of hurting her feelings. Do you know of any way I could have said something to her that would have been tactful and not embarrassing?

Answer: The only advice I can give you is to keep this particular woman from sitting in the corner of a very low deep sofa. If you proffer an ordinary chair or even

After A Man's Heart

by JEAN RANDALL

YESTERDAY: Feeling a certain responsibility toward Buff, Tim keeps an eye on her new friends, especially Van. He buys up all Van's soap sculpture of Buff until she puts a stop to it. Then a gossip item appears in the paper saying that Buff's affections are engaged.

Chapter 16
Tim, coming home from a long day's work, had just time to wash and brush up before the boarding-house dinner was served. George had preceded him so he was unprepared for the chorus of congratulation which arose upon his entrance.

"Good work, old man!" said a young college professor. "I've met Miss Carroll and I admire her immensely. But why not have given us a hint before the paper got it?" "Lucky dog," sighed someone else before Tim could answer.

"Only child of rich and distinguished parents, smart as a whip herself, and easy on the eyes. Does she have any friends you could introduce me to, Tim?"

"What," demanded Tim, "is all this about?"

Half a dozen voices told him, in full detail and at great length, George, who understood the situation, sat grinning his enjoyment of his friend's position. Under the circumstances, Tim could not deny the engagement; neither would he confirm it, he flung evasive replies in every direction and escaped from the table as soon as possible. In ten minutes he was confronting Buff, for once alone in her living room.

"Did you actually put it in the paper?" he demanded. "If so—well, there is such a thing as playing safe. Buff! I'm here tonight to let myself be fitted. Get it over in a hurry, will you? I can't stand any more public congratulations."

To his astonishment she said soberly: "I didn't put it in the paper, Tim, that is, if you mean the paragraph that came out tonight. But I suppose I'm morally responsible, just the same. You were here yesterday and heard what I said. How was I to know Van would telephone to the society reporter and vouch for the truth of his bit of news?"

"Was that all there was to it? The only basis for everybody thinking and saying—"

"That was all there was to it. But it seems to have been enough," she sighed. "I suppose you're still terribly averse to the idea—of marrying me. I mean? Why, Tim? You really do need a wife, and I—more than ever I need a job; somebody to look after."

Tim remained acidly that he was opposed equally to being anyone's job, or the subject of maternal care.

"This has gone beyond a joke," he went on wrathfully, "if it ever was one to start with! You're too young to know your own mind, as I've pointed out to you more than once. However, if you feel you must mother somebody, go adopt yourself an orphan—twins preferred."

"No Modesty?"
She made no reply and glancing up he saw she was blushing furiously.

"And well you may," he went on. "Have you no womanly reticence, no modesty? Coming here to Boulder and telling practically everybody you meet that you and I are engaged?"

"That's enough!" The color receded from her face, leaving it rather frighteningly pale. She balled her small hands into fists and brought them together in her lap. Her blue eyes seemed almost black, her pupils dilated.

"I wouldn't marry you now if you were the only man on earth! Practically everybody indeed! You sound as if I stopped the very newsboys on the street and confided to them my wild passion for you!"

She leaped up and stood before the fire, her small figure outlined an armchair, she won't have any inclination to sit on her foot! I am feeling rather guilty in answering that because sitting on my foot in the corner of a deep sofa is one of my own particular habits. For my reassurance I can at least say truthfully that my own sofas are upholstered in very light and perishable colors and that I am as fearful of the mere thought of a smudge as any one could possibly be, but never a mark has my slipper ever made—not even after several hours a day for years on end. But I willingly agree that sitting on one's foot is a taboo of good manners outside of one's own home or on very informal occasions, and when sitting on a sofa seat a yard deep. On such a sofa, sitting on one's foot is the only way one can sit.

ATTRACTING THE WAITRESS
Dear Mrs. Post: I was out with a friend the other evening who has always seemed to know the right thing to do. As it happened, I wanted to change my order, and to attract the attention of the waitress he called, "Jenny, just a minute." Even if he knew the waitress' name, was it in good taste for him to use it this way?

Answer: If Jenny was a made-up name, then it was an improper thing to call her, but if he knew her and that really was her name, then it was certainly better to call her by name than to call out, "Oh, waitress!"

A RELATIVE ASKS TO GIVE A SHOWER
Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be out of order for the man's aunt to give a shower for his fiancée?

Answer: No, it will be entirely proper! (Were she the bride's aunt, good taste would be in question.)

If you are puzzled as to the correct choice of stationery, how to begin and end your letters, or any other detail of well-bred correspondence, send for Emily Post's booklet, "The Etiquette of Letter-Writing." against the rough stone of the fireplace.

"I'm not retracting a word I've said, remember! I do think you need somebody—to be with you, to be a—friend and comrade. I do think I could have done a lot for you. But I'll not be insulted, Tim Corliss, or accused of being deficient in modesty and what not! Not by you or any other man! I'll call the paper tomorrow and demand a retraction of that paragraph. I'll tell everybody I know that so far from being engaged to you, I simply loathe you! I'll refuse to speak to you the next time we meet on the street. I..." she choked with rage.

He felt suddenly greatly ashamed of himself. This girl had taken in—or rather let him stay where he had already installed himself—and given him the kindest of care. If in her friendly zeal she had gone a little too far, it was for him to protect her from herself rather than to hurl brutal accusations in her face.

He rose and stood close to her, noting as he did so that the silky top of her head came only to his shoulder. So little and young, but so terribly determined! He smiled and sighed together.

"Look here, Buff," he began gently. "Can't you forget all this and just be good friends? Start at me, I mean, as if I hadn't—hadn't we a cropper last summer and made you... sorry for me? Can't we let it be that we've known each other a few weeks, like each other—and that's all? I—a deeper and more earnest note crept into his voice—"I really do want your friendship, my dear."

Still she made no answer and presently he picked up one of her hands, finding it icy cold to his touch.

"I'm a brute, barging in here to talk as I did. It was just that every living soul at the boardinghouse started congratulating me, and I was in a devil of a fix, wondering how to deny other than not, going to see if I do care about Buff, is that we should be friends?"

"That," she said, "need no longer worry you, I said I'd call the paper tomorrow, didn't I?"

"Infatuation"
Lord knows it printed plenty about me last summer that was not exactly pleasant reading! I don't even care about the people at the house—now, what I do care about, Buff, is that we should be friends."

She tilted her head and he was relieved to see a smile tugging at the corners of her mouth.

"All thought of marriage eliminated?"

"All thought of marriage eliminated. I'd really make an abominable husband," he pleaded. "Late for meals more often than not, going back to work in the laboratory till midnight. Knowing nothing of women. I'd probably say and do the wrong thing on every occasion. I give you my word, Buff, I was designed by nature as a perennial bachelor."

"Is that why you became engaged to Mrs. DeMuth?" she asked coldly.

He started as if she had struck him, his face whitening.

"I suppose everyone is entitled to lose control of his emotions once in a lifetime." He gripped the back of a chair with tense fingers. "I realize that what happened last summer is public property but even so, I don't enjoy having actual references made to it in my presence."

"I wasn't actually thinking of giving you pleasure! I was merely inquiring, in my feminine, illogical way, why you were so keen on marriage last summer if you've felt all along you'd make such a terrible husband to any girl you honored with your—what? Resignation? Chivalrous succumbing to her wishes? Fatalistic yielding to circumstance?"

"Infatuation," he said, curtly. "Kid stuff. I should have had an attack

THE HOME GARDENER

by EDWIN H. PERKINS

The combined experiences of tree lovers indicate that shade trees are benefited most by feeding them in late fall. Experiments have been conducted in loosening the soil around the trunk of the tree where fertilizers have been mixed in with the soil, and by placing the fertilizing elements at quite some distance from the trunk of the tree. The result has been that best growth seems to be made when the fertilizer is placed at quite some distance from the trunk of the tree. The best point is where water drips in a ring from the lowest branches.

In order to do this it is provide a sufficient quantity of food, it has been learned that holes shall be driven into the ground to a depth of two or more feet at the drip line. These holes are made with a crowbar or a one and one-half inch pipe driven into the soil to the required depth. Holes are spaced about three feet apart around the entire circumference of the drip line.

In each hole is placed approximately one pound of fertilizing mixture made from one-half bone meal and one-half 4-8-4 fertilizer. The hole is nearly filled with coarse sand and the top then plugged with heavy soil to prevent the sand from washing out.

The food is now placed where the roots of the tree can use it most advantageously.

Half Billion Paid For State Relief In 6-Year Period

15 Per Cent of Population Getting Assistance Last Summer, Report Shows

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Almost 15 per cent of the population of the state was receiving some form of public assistance in mid-summer of 1939, six years after governmental relief expenditures began to soar upward, the state welfare department reported today with an analysis showing that in the last 6 years the people of the state have absorbed more than $372,000,000 in governmental funds for relief purposes.

In June of this year there were 439,345 persons receiving some form of public aid, social security, general relief, work relief, farm subsistence grants, CCC, or other federal agencies exclusive of NYA, it was shown.

Of the total of more than half a billion dollars spent in the state in half a dozen years for public assistance, more than $423,000,000 came from the federal government. That source provided 74 per cent of the total. The state government contributed 4.9 per cent, while the local governments, county and city, supplied the rest.

Varies With Localities
The percentage of the population receiving governmental aid varies widely between the poor and the prosperous counties of Wisconsin, the north as compared with the southern end of the state, and the rural and urban sections.

The Fox river valley counties compare favorably with their neighbors and the state average.

Figures on the total number of persons, and the proportion of their populations receiving public assistance in the counties of northeastern Wisconsin were given by public welfare department statisticians as follows:

County	Total	Percent
Brown	7,548	10.2
Outagamie	5,817	9.1
Calumet	684	4.2
Shawano	4,175	12.7
Manitowoc	5,339	9.1
Waupaca	4,165	12.2
Winnebago	8,150	9.9

Wisconsin Health

BY DR. C. A. HARPER
State Health Officer

Last year, deaths from appendicitis in Wisconsin were limited to 325, the lowest on record since 1919 and some 27 less than for 1937, the second lowest year. In addition, 1938 was the fifth consecutive year in which appendicitis was less than the preceding year, while the high toll was in 1930 when it reached 534 deaths.

Even though the trend is downward, the figure can still be paraded down. A large number of deaths from appendicitis can be prevented through proper medical attention. And one of the rules recommended by the State Medical Society, the Wisconsin Pharmaceutical Association and the State Board of Health who collaborated in publishing a two-point program against appendicitis, is this:

When abdominal pain, cramps or soreness last for several hours, see your family physician without delay.

The other rule is:

Avoid laxatives or physics in the presence of abdominal pain.

Deaths from appendicitis occur at all ages in the life-span so it is especially important that everyone observe these two simple rules.

I like it here in Boulder. I've made plans to do some work in this apartment. I've reached an agreement with my parents about what we shall all do this winter. So you can have me of your mind; can, in fact, be late to as many meals as your landlady will allow, labor in your laboratory until dawn for all it concerns me."

He folded his arms and leaned against the mantelpiece.

"We're not to be friends then?"

"You'd like to be?"

"More than I can tell you! You're a swell person, Buff, and even if you don't want my gratitude for what you did for me at the ranch, it's still pretty vivid in my mind. It's just that—I don't want to come here as—as often as I'd like—and—"

Believe Wiley's Ambitions For Republican Nomination Influenced Stand on Embargo

BY RUBY A. BLACK

Washington—Political leaders here are speculating on how much the ambitions of Senator Alexander Wiley, Chippewa Falls Republican, to be Wisconsin's "favorite son" for president in 1940 had to do with his decision to vote against repeal of the partial arms embargo.

The senator is known to incline personally toward repeal of the embargo. Even the speech in which he announced he would vote against repeal was repeatedly characterized in the senate press gallery as "a speech in favor of repeal announcing he would vote against repeal."

But he knew that the overwhelming sentiment in Wisconsin is against repeal. He knew that both the Republicans and the Progressives in the Wisconsin delegation are unanimously against repeal. He knew he would be stigmatized as going against the will of the Wisconsin people and the will of the other Republicans from Wisconsin (he looked with favor, however, on being against the will of Progressive Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr., of Madison and the two Progressives in the house.)

Hopes Soar
Meanwhile, it is clear that Wiley's hopes that the Wisconsin delegation in the 1940 Republican national convention will be pledged to him have been soaring since Peter Zisch's group "captured" the Wisconsin Vandenberg-for-President club's Fond du Lac rally. He considered Vandenberg his chief rival for the Wisconsin delegation to the Republican national convention.

The way the "political speculators" here figure out Wiley's stand is this: Since he does not come up for reelection until 1944, he might vote his own feelings on the embargo issue, and hope it would be forgotten, or superseded by other more immediate issues, before he must run again; but Wisconsin's choice for president must be made next year, and it might not be forgotten by then.

So, he worked out a way to vote his constituents' convictions and still retain his independent judgment on both the issue and on how to vote on passage of the neutrality bill after, as expected, the embargo is repealed.

It is also certain that his decision was much easier because he knew his vote on the embargo could not affect the result, no matter how he chose to cast his vote. For, as far as the senate is concerned, obviously a majority—a big majority—is for repeal, and for passage of the new law, with its cash and carry provisions on all exports to warring countries. Guesses as to House action, by astute observers among the congressmen, is that repeal will win by anywhere from 25 to 50 votes.

Thinks He Has Chance
The story is being told around the capitol that Wiley actually believes he has a chance for the Republican nomination for president next year.

if the war is still on and the United States is still not in it. This is said to be how he works it out: Anybody who has been definitely labeled as pro-ally or pro-German cannot get the nomination; he, as a man of Scandinavian descent, would be the ideal candidate, assuming the Scandinavian countries are still neutral.

Some credence was given to this gossip by Wiley's emphasis in his speech on the virtues of the Scandinavian. He said:

"We have only to look to the plucky little Scandinavian countries for a heartening example. Just last Wednesday the Swedish monarch and the Kings of Denmark and Norway and the President of Finland met in Stockholm to discuss the Finnish-Russian question in a spirit of unity."

"Here is an example of nations allied by the consanguinity of a common cultural heritage, a common political democracy, a large measure of social equality, and a common desire to remain independent."

"United Front"
"Bonded just as we are by a kindred ideology and a kindred level of life, these little nations have banded their countries together in a united front of 17,000,000 peace-loving peoples."

"This is an inspiring example of unity. The question, 'Where will the congress stand on the embargo question?' is not nearly so important as, 'Where will the American people be after the smoke of battle clears?'"

"I have every confidence that America will keep faith—that both factions will unite not to stir the ashes of the debate, but to concentrate then on building for an abiding American peace."

First Encyclical of Pope to be Delayed

Vatican City—(P)—Prelates today said the first encyclical of Pope Pius XII would be delayed, probably until next week.

The encyclical had been expected Oct. 25 but these sources reported without explanation that publication had been postponed several days.

Vatican officials declined to forecast the contents, but authoritative sources said it probably would be devoted largely to the present troubled conditions of the world.

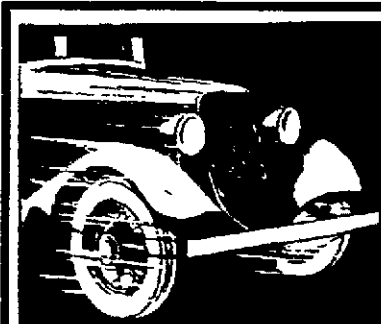

Pope Pius is expected to return to the Vatican Friday from his summer palace at Castel Gondolfo.

His first appointment of new cardinals also was reported likely in the near future. Officials said the first consistory was almost certain to occur in December.

Skull Session to Close Drills for New London Tilt

Menasha Gridders Show Increased Power in Practice This Week

Menasha—The Menasha High school football team will end its preparation for the Northeastern Wisconsin conference contest at New London Friday night with a skull drill session. The Jays have worked daily in preparing for the Bulldogs this week. Monday the Menasha team had a lengthy drill on pass defense. The team indicated a need for such work in the game with West DePere last Friday night. Tuesday night the practice session was devoted to general defense and Wednesday of offense was stressed in practice. New London has a dangerous passing attack which has accounted for much of its scoring this year. Long passes are the particular strength of the Bulldogs and a defense has to be caught napping only once in order to provide a scoring opportunity.

In their practice Wednesday night the Jays showed increased offensive power. Richard Sheleski at left half and Roland O'Brien at right half did most of the ball carrying, but were blocking hard when the other carried the ball. The two provide power in the Menasha backfield as well as a decided running threat.

Blocking Improves—William Schmitzer and William Robinson, who are assigned the less spectacular roles of blocking backs on most plays, were blocking with a vengeance Wednesday night. Time after time they removed opposition players to permit long runs.

Available for relief duty in the backfield are Armin Weber and John Baldauf at halfbacks and Robert Waldman at fullback. Robert Nantke, varsity right half through most of the games, is the only player on the injured list. Nantke probably will not be used Friday night to avoid aggravating his shoulder injury. With no game the following week, Nantke will be ready to go in the Neenah game.

Neenah Gridders Seek 1st Victory

Meet Black Phantoms at West DePere Saturday Morning

Neenah—Seeking its first victory of the season, the Neenah high school grid squad will clash with the Black Phantoms of West DePere at 10 o'clock Saturday morning at DePere in a Northeastern Wisconsin conference game.

Coach George Christoph continued to drill his gridders on fundamentals this week, stressing pass defense, however. During a couple of its games, West DePere has shown a strong passing attack, and if the Rockets stop their running offensive, it is assured that the Phantoms will take to the air.

The Rocket mentor will not name a definite starting lineup until Friday. Performance during the scrimmage this afternoon will determine the starting assignments. A tentative opening cast would be composed of Hackstock, left end; Ackerman, left tackle; Meyer, left guard; Douglas or Kuehl, center; Graham, right guard; Stalfeld, right tackle; Calloway, right end; Bunker or Burt, quarterback; Buxton Kettering, right halfback; Evans or Reddin, left halfback; and Smith or Charles Kettering, fullback.

The Rockets and the Black Phantoms are about on a par, but West DePere would receive a slight edge on paper because it has won one conference game in four starts, while Neenah has lost three conference tilts.

U.S. Should Have Trained Defense, Rotarians Told

Reserve Officer Warns Against Dangers of Unpreparedness

Menasha — Major Helm Hussner, Appleton, of the reserve officers' corps of the United States army, warned against a policy of unpreparedness which would send an untrained army of American youths against the seasoned forces of an enemy in case of war in a talk at the Wednesday luncheon meeting of the Menasha Rotary club.

The speaker pointed out that lines of transportation have been shortened tremendously in recent years through the ingenuity of mankind. He declared that he offered his warning as an American citizen and not as an officer of the reserve corps.

American people, engrossed in normal pursuits, lose sight of what might happen to America without ample protection, Hussner stated. He said that it would be criminal to expect American young men with lack of training to compete with an invading force with 20 years of preparation along military lines.

Army Costs Less

The speaker pointed out that the American people spend three billions of dollars annually for education and more than 10 billions of dollars for education, insurance and fire, police and forestry service.

In contrast with other countries, however, America spends less than one-third of the sums spent by any other major nations for a standing army. The speaker urged that America think seriously of national defense.

The speaker also described his experiences last summer at the proving grounds in which the government tests war materials. He described the effects of 2,000 pound bombs, anti-tank guns and similar pieces of ordnance.

Nunn-Bush President Honored for Efforts

Milwaukee —(P)—The Cosmopolitan club last night presented its 1939 distinguished service award to Henry L. Nunn, president of the Nunn-Bush Shoe company, for his work in establishing "a beacon light is the present period of labor turmoil and misunderstanding."

Nunn has mined nationwide attention with his labor policies, one of which guarantees to his employees 52 paychecks a year.

Industry has "too much economic fascism and too many dictators," Nunn said, adding that better relations between labor and capital would come when "there is greater democracy in our industry."

In presenting the award, the Rev. E. S. Hjortland, pastor of Ascension Lutheran church, said:

"In Europe today medals are being pinned on men who destroy, but tonight we are honoring a man who has given people economic life."

Al Jolson Says Ruby Keeler Will Sue for Divorce

Dancer, 'Mammy' Singer Separate After Marriage of 10 Years

Hollywood —(P)—The love song of Al Jolson and Ruby Keeler is ended, but for Al the melody lingers on. Singer Jolson sadly confirmed today reports Miss Keeler had left him and would sue for divorce. They celebrated their 10th wedding anniversary with an elaborate night club party last Sept. 21.

Jolson said just before Ruby left he told her:

"I hope everything will work out all right. I hope you'll come back right away."

"Maybe," she replied.

Miss Keeler and Albert Jolson Jr., 4, the boy they adopted from a Chicago nursery, were in seclusion at the Toluca lake home of her parents, Jolson, meanwhile, drifted around the 15-room Encino show place he built five years ago, and said he would stay there until his wife "made up her mind once and for all."

Married Three Times

Jolson, born Asa Yoelsin in Russia 53 years ago, was married twice before he met Miss Keeler. His second wife, Ethel Delmar Jolson, divorced him in Paris in 1926.

Miss Keeler was 19, a Broadway dancer, when she married the man who had become world-famous as a "mammy" singer on the stage and who had just achieved new success in the first talking picture, "The Jazz Singer."

After her marriage, she too appeared in numerous films, but has been seen infrequently in pictures in recent years, devoting much of her time instead to golf.

Jolson, a member of the Jewish faith, said that in discussion of the separation he offered his Catholic wife $400 a week for life and a settlement of $50,000 in the event she re-married, with a $100,000 cash trust fund for Al, Jr. Miss Keeler rejected the offer as insufficient, he added.

The singer said family troubles which he had not considered important enough to cause divorce brought about the separation.

Mrs. Morris was born at Madison. She left the city with her father at the conclusion of his six years as governor, and was educated abroad. Mrs. Morris was a former director and officer of the Women's club of Wisconsin; a former member of the Wisconsin governing board of the Colonial Dames of America, and formerly a member of the University of Wisconsin board of visitors.

Survivors, in addition to her husband, include a sister, Mrs. Frank W. Jacobs of Madison.

Funeral services will be held here Friday morning at All Saints cathedral and at Grace Episcopal church at Madison in the afternoon. Interment will be at Madison in Forest Hill cemetery.

Mail Facilities To be Improved

Post office Department Plans New System for Upper Michigan

Washington —(P)—A plan for improved mail facilities in Michigan's upper peninsula, effective Nov. 1, has been outlined by the postoffice department.

In a letter to Representative Bradley (R-Mich), Ambrose O'Connell, second assistant postmaster general, said a system of increased frequency of service should meet the problem resulting from discontinuance of two Sault Ste. Marie and Minneapolis trains.

Reporting that establishment of through star route service between Trout Lake railroad station and Escanaba, a distance of 133 miles, would entail prohibitive costs, O'Connell said it was believed the alternative arrangements would "afford satisfactory service" at an expense that appeared justified.

Under this plan, the frequency of service from Newberry to Engadine railroad station has been increased to 12 times weekly from June 15 to Sept. 15 of each year.

Another star route from Manistique to Steuben was extended to Shingleton and the frequency of this and the St. Ignace to Sault Ste. Marie route increased to six times weekly.

U. W. Head Boosts City Manager Plan For All Communities

New York — Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra, president of the University of Wisconsin, urged extension of the city manager form of government to every urban center in the nation in an address here yesterday before the ninth annual New York Herald Tribune forum on current problems.

Dykstra, former city manager of Cincinnati, declared that managers of demonstrated ability seldom were discovered by popular election but had to be sought out and hired.

"Besides managerial ability," he said, "our cities need representative and responsible councils, fairly and honestly elected by the people. Without such bodies, no managerial ability can function in the administrative field, nor can there be honest public operation."

Stressing the urgent need of competent, economic internal administration of cities, Dr. Dykstra added that "the older politicians do not realize that the city is no longer their oyster to be opened, nor do they see that we face disaster if they remain in control."

OVERHEARD AT TREASURE ISLAND:

"...and there's no guesswork about Controlled Roasting"

Every day coffee-lovers through Hills Bros. Exposition Theatre at Treasure Island, Golden Gate International Exposition, to see "Behind the Cup," a sound picture in Cinecolor.

IMPORTANT: Carefully observe timing for each method. Measure 2 level tablespoons of coffee to each cup of water. Vary water slightly for exact strength desired. Keep coffee-maker clean.

DRIP METHOD: 6 to 8 minutes preferred. If less than 2 1/2 capacity is made, water will drip too fast giving weak brew.

GLASS VACUUM MAKERS: Put upper bowl on after water boils. Coffee and water should be in contact 5 to 7 minutes.

PERCOLATOR: Start with cold or hot water. "Percol" 7 to 10 minutes after steady pumping starts.

COFFEE: Bring coffee and water to boiling. Stir well. Add small amount of cold water and let stand 5 minutes to settle grounds.

STEEPING: Pour boiling water on coffee. Stir well. Steep in 5 minutes. Steep for a total of 10 to 15 minutes.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

BELGIAN CONGO

Only once in my travels have I visited Belgium, but the days I spent there were pleasant and interesting. Most of the time I stayed in Brussels, but I visited one village and also went to Antwerp, the second largest city.

Counting its suburbs, Brussels has a population of more than 800,000. People often call it "the Little Paris." It is not so old as Paris, but has a history going back 1,400 years. For a long period it was owned by Street scene in Antwerp, Belgium. Austria. At a later time, Napoleon took it into his empire. It has been the capital of the kingdom of Belgium since 1830.

Belgium's king, Leopold III, will be 38 years old on Nov. 3. His beautiful wife, Queen Astrid, died four years ago in an automobile accident in Switzerland.

The law-making power of Belgium is in the hands of the parliament, not of the king. Members of parliament are chosen by popular vote and are known as senators and deputies.

When I was in Brussels, I stayed at the home of one of the deputies. He followed an old Belgian custom of shaking hands very often. He would shake hands with me several times each day--in the morning, at noon, in the evening, and sometimes just before I went to bed.

The chief thing I did during my visit to Antwerp was to visit the great zoo there. It is one of the best I have seen anywhere. One reason for its fine collection of animals is the fact that Belgium owns a large colony in Africa--the Belgian Congo. Strange animals of many kinds have been brought to Belgium from this colony.

The Belgian Congo is a huge stretch of land in the heart of Africa. It covers 902,000 square miles, which means it is 79 times as large as Belgium.

The Belgian Congo is rich in plant life, and many of the plants yield products of great value on the world's markets. These products include palm oil, palm nuts, cotton, coffee, cocoa, rubber, sugar and ivory.

In 1914, the outside world heard a great deal about Belgium. Germany's army leaders ordered hundreds of thousands of soldiers to invade it, on the way to France. The little country fought off the soldiers as well as possible, but they were too strong.

If Germany had been the victor in that war, Belgium very likely would have become part of the German empire. As it was, the nation's freedom was saved.

Rats in County To be Guests at 'Banquet' Friday

Announce Poison Bait Distribution Centers For Day

Outagame county's rat banquet Friday is expected to kill off thousands of the pests. The prepared bait is being distributed in every community in the county, according to J. F. Magnus, county agricultural agent. Everyone who has reserved a package of bait should call for it Friday, and the bait should be exposed before dark that evening so that it will be fresh.

To avoid any chance of pets or other beneficial animals taking some of the bait accidentally and becoming sick, it is best to feed them well the night the rat bait is exposed, Magnus advised. Animals also should be kept confined on that evening. If the animals should happen to eat some of the bait, it will cause vomiting and the poison thus will be eliminated.

Those persons who have placed orders for bait may call for it at the following places Friday: Black Creek, Arthur Schmidt farm; Buchanan, Frank Schmidt farm; Bovina, Bovina Town hall; Center, Center Valley cooperative; Cicero, Walter H. G. farm; Dale, Dale Town hall; Deer Creek, Pleasant View pavilion; Ellington, Don Breitrick store; Stephentown, Freedom, Albert Krueger; Grand Chute, house at Appleton; Greenville, George Schaefer farm; Hortonville, Jess Lathrop; Kaukauna, Frank McDaniel farm; Liberty, Curt Rogers; Maine, B. F. Gunderson farm; Maple Creek, Leo Black farm; Oneshorn, P. M. Garvey farm; Osborn, Fred Johnson farm; Seymour, Alfred Muller farm; Vandenberg, John Diedrick farm.

Cities and villages: Bear Creek, Bear Creek Hardware store; Black Creek, Grunwaldt store; Combined Locks Village hall; Hortonville Village hall; New London, Tribune Electric company; Shiocton, Allen, C. L. Service station; Little Chute Village hall; Kimberly Village hall; Seymour, Wadham's service station; Kaukauna, Fifth ward, Peter G. Reichel; Appleton, Second ward, courthouse; Tenth ward, Patrick J. Heenan; Twelfth ward, Mike Jacobs; Thirteenth ward, Fred Krause.

Prepare Program for 991 Youths Becoming Citizens This Year

A citizenship program designed to reach 991 youths attaining the age of 21 this year is being mapped by county school officials and representatives of various organizations in the county. Ben J. Rohan, Appleton superintendent of schools, is chairman of the Outagame County Citizenship Day program. He was named at meeting Tuesday evening with Henry J. Van Straten, county superintendent of schools, as executive secretary.

A survey conducted by the county superintendent shows the following number of 21-year-old citizens in the county: Black Creek 6, Black Creek village 8, Bovina 5, Shiocton 6, Buchanan 19, Center 14, Cicero 14, Dale 12, Deer Creek 15, Freedom 22, Grand Chute 34, Greenville 21, Hortonville 15, Kaukauna 147, Liberty 6, New London 23, Maine 16, Maple Creek 6, Oneshorn 11, Seymour town 26, city of Seymour 10, Vandenberg 12, Combined Locks 12, Little Chute 22, Kimberly 24 and Appleton 431.

Registration Open for Table Service Course

Registration for a class in table service which will be offered by the homemaking division of the Appleton Vocational school now are being taken, Miss Mabel Burke, director, reported today. The class will meet one night a week.

An organization meeting for those interested in a class in party food will be held at 3 o'clock next Monday afternoon in the auditorium of the vocational school. Mrs. Doretta Lorenz will teach the class.

Archers Move Range Into School Building

The shooting range for members of the Appleton High school Archery club has been moved from outdoors to the auxiliary gymnasium at the high school, according to William C. Pickett, who advises the club along with Miss Carol Anderson. About 35 members are taught to make their own bows and arrows and practice weekly in the gymnasium.

County Receives Map From Grignon Home

A Stephens map of Outagame county, one of the few still in existence, has been donated to the county by the Grignon estate. The map has been ordered placed under glass by the county purchasing committee and copies of the map which will be hung in the register of deeds office, will be made. One Stephens map is being used in the deeds office at the present time.

Little Chute Troop Committee Will Meet

Little Chute—The troop committee which directs the activities of Troops 51 and 52, sponsored by the Lions club and American Legion post respectively, will convene this evening.

Plans for fall and winter scouting programs will be mapped. L. N. Schommer is committee chairman.

Tucson, Ariz.—(U)—An airplane sowed 200 pounds of 50 varieties of grass seed over range land near here to that method of restoring the range for cattle.

The University of Arizona and the U. S. soil conservation service cooperated in the experiment. Results will not be known for several months.

Veterans May Use Free Textbooks for Courses

Edward Lutz, Outagame county service officer, today called attention of the state legislature in appropriation funds for free textbooks for veterans taking state university extension courses. Application forms for the free courses for veterans may be secured from the service officer at the courthouse.

Lutz pointed out that the definition of a veteran has been liberalized for these purposes so as to include any state veteran who served in the World War and out-of-state veteran who has resided in the state for five years previous to the time of application. Nurses who were in the service also are included.

During the period following the opening of schools in the city, from 30 to 50 bicyclists were appearing at the weekly bicycle safety school conducted each Saturday for the rule violators. During the last few weeks attendance at the school has dropped to about 15, Radtke said.

Suggest Weekly Routine for Housewives to Check Fatigue

Madison—"Are you one of those homemakers who can outwit fatigue so well that you have time and energy to enjoy your family and an outside activity or two?" The state medical society, in a health bulletin today advises housewives on ways to cut down fatigue which results from activities around the house.

"Personal happiness and welfare are so closely allied with plenty of rest, good nutrition and proper working conditions that health must come first in your plan of homemaking. Divide the heavier work among the members of the week and do the heavier jobs in the morning, with lighter tasks in the afternoon. The schedule might look something like this:

Monday: Do light cleaning; sort the clothing for laundering; plan meals for Tuesday; get extra rest.

Tuesday: Do the laundry; clean the basement; lunch and rest one hour; bring in the clothes; prepare for ironing.

Wednesday: Iron, mend and put articles away.

Thursday: Do some special baking; rest a half hour; attend club meeting.

Friday: Do some baking.

Saturday: Clean kitchen, prepare Sunday dinner; possibly shop and have time with the children.

Sunday: Family day.

Daily Rest

"Rest an hour or at least a half hour each day, depending on the number of members in the family and on your general health. Now go over your plan, and decide what must be done, and release yourself from some tasks if it is for the betterment of yourself and the family. Omit the ironing of sheets, night clothes, knit underwear, tea towels and other articles that appear just as well without ironing. Make the children responsible for care of their rooms, making their beds, hanging up their clothes and putting away articles. Let them get the vegetables ready for meals.

"Good daily elimination will help to outwit fatigue. Establish the habit of daily elimination at a regular time; drink enough fluid daily; eat meals at regular hours and include in your daily diet two vegetables and two fruits, one of which is raw in each class. A glass of warm water before breakfast will be helpful.

"Arrange your work so that you do not climb stairs unnecessarily. Have correct lighting as fatigue may result from too little light or from too intense light. Wear comfortable clothes, and above all, maintain a good posture; for example, if your wash tub is too low, place blocks under the legs of the tub to raise it to the correct height; raise the kitchen table in the same way, and if possible, have a chair of correct height available so that you can sit down for some of your work in the kitchen.

"Take things in your natural stride and remember to rest periodically, and you'll accomplish more. If you don't like homemaking and have to do it, put a new interest into it. Plant that row of sweet peas along the back fence, learn to sing, learn verses, take long walks and get acquainted with your young son. Forget about some of the household jobs, to take time away from them.

"If you look well to your personal health, make household routine tasks easier and have a fine attitude toward living, you will be a competent manager of your home, have exuberant health and outwit excessive fatigue."

Aged San Quentin Prisoner Keeps His Beard Despite Rule

San Quentin, Calif.—(U)—Only one of San Quentin prison's 8,000 inmates has a beard.

"Old Louie" Gianopolis, 37, keeps his flowing white whiskers despite prison regulations.

The deeply religious shepherd was committed four years ago for assault. He was told he must be shaved like other convicts. He had to be forced into the barber chair.

"You're not the boss here," he shouted, "God is boss here, and you will be punished."

"I'm the boss," the barber said, "and you're going to be shaved."

With that the barber fell dead.

Dr. Leo L. Stanley, prison physician, said the barber died of a heart attack, but nobody has tried to shave old Louie since. He gets out in three years.

Indians Made Many Essentials From Bark, Trunks of Trees

BY PHEBE JEWELL NICHOLS (Mrs. A. F. Lookaround)

The Algonquin Indians being of the woodland culture, produced necessities from the bark and inner trunk of the trees in their habitat. From these materials they made their dwellings, their canoes, buckets, baskets and other receptacles, called way-koop (basswood). It varied in grade and size from coarse thread to rope and the right size was used as warp for rush mats, was woven into utility bags and also used to bind poles and bark together in making houses and to sew the many birch bark trays, baskets, and mokuks (covered containers) into shape.

The pitch boiled to the top it was skimmed off and stored in bark containers to be reheated when used. Fiber for cord was made from basswood. Strips of bark were peeled from the tree and boiled till the inner bark came loose. This was shredded into size needed, shreds of the same size were spliced by twisting moistened ends together between the thumb and calf of the leg. The cord resulting from this process the Menominees called way-koop (basswood). It varied in grade and size from coarse thread to rope and the right size was used as warp for rush mats, was woven into utility bags and also used to bind poles and bark together in making houses and to sew the many birch bark trays, baskets, and mokuks (covered containers) into shape.

Most picturesque of these trees as to appearance, utility and the fund of legend surrounding it, is the birch bark tree of which there are several kinds in the botanical category. We shall not attempt to describe here the different varieties. The general characteristics of graceful height, small oval leaves, and whitish smoky-streaked bark in layers of a peculiar satiny toughness, with little knot-like eruptions may serve to identify the general class known as birch.

Have Story About Tree

Indians have a story for everything, so they have a story about the black, bird-shaped marks all up and down the birch tree. They will tell you that when Ma(a) nah-poo, or Hiawatha, was passing bark from the birch for his canoe, the swallows annoyed him greatly by fluttering about his head and interfering with his work.

When he commanded them to be still, they paid no heed, so he dashed them against the tree. Since then every birch tree has what appears to be small black birds with down-drooping wings' outspread, flattened against the bark. "Those are the birds that wouldn't mind," the Indian story teller says. He knows many legends that center about the birch tree. Each teaches a lesson in nature lore, folk ways, or ethics.

Birch bark was put to many uses. In making canoes and receptacles of it, pitch to caulk seams and cord to bind with were necessary. Resin for pitch was procured mostly from spruce trees which were cut into and the sap flowing from the cuts allowed to gather and harden for a year or more when it was collected, whittled into shavings, placed in woven fiber bags and boiled in water. New York—Buyers gave the rail issues a mild final hour whirl in the stock market today but the rest of the list was mixed. Advances failed to hold in most cases and minus signs were predominant at the close.

Early in the session there was an attempt to bolster most groups and the ticker fell behind floor transactions for a few minutes while the flurry was on. It soon subsided and the price range for the remainder of the day was never very wide. Transfers approximated 1,600,000 shares. Losses ran as much as 2 points.

A new list of boosted third quarter earnings and higher dividend declarations lent some aid for a time to those who wanted the market to go head. Foreign news was considered negative.

Foreign markets were firm although there was some selling in Amsterdam near the end of the day.

The argument over the neutrality bill in congress attracted passing attention, but was overshadowed by business and industrial developments at home.

Commodities were mixed. In late dealings cotton added 10 to 30 cents a bale. At Chicago wheat lost 1/2 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel and corn was unchanged to down 1/2 of a cent.
